Dear Ricky,
Thanks for the letter and the picture. I'm glad you like it. I'm sorry I haven't written sooner but I've been very busy. I have a new boyfriend named Jeff. He's very nice and I like him very much. He's a senior at Hoover High School.
He's on the football team
and he's very handsome.
He has blue eyes and black hair. He's very nice to me and I like him very much. I'm glad you like your new school.

PEP RALLIES

"Two bits, four bits, six bits, a dollar, all for the Patriots stand up and holler." This cheer is heard at the end of all Brewer pep rallies. After this cheer, the class with the most spirit throughout the entire pep rally wins the spirit stick.

Some things classes did to show spirit included bringing balloons, and wearing hats and bags to go along with the cheerleaders theme. The cheerleaders work during the week making signs, deciding what will be done on Friday. Cheerleaders also work hard to prepare for the only after school pep rally, the bonfire. The cheerleaders and football team had a "woodcutting" to collect enough wood for a good fire. The Spanish Club, B Club, and the FHA Club performed skits at the bonfire and the B Club and Spanish Club also performed at the Friday pep rally. During the bonfire the band played, the cheerleaders cheered, and once again, the cheer "Two Bits" was heard.

WEEK '85

B. Taylor

S. Campbell

Homecoming Week was one of many faces. One might refer to Celebrity Day as "Day of 100 Stars." Cyndi Lauper, the Ghostbusters, and Boy George made apearances, along with a "Boy George Exterminator". For Toga Day, there was even a Mahatma Ghandi, portrayed by Tim Crow. School pictures were taken on Dress-Up Day. The week was ended with Red, White and Blue Day, and the pep rally which included a host of skits. Homecoming Week was organized by the BHS Cheerleaders with the classes decorating the school on a Saturday. The Freshman won the "coveted" Spirit Stick for the most participation.

Stuart Campbell and Brian Creel contribute to the Homecoming festivities by making a "floating" sign.

Dances

Dances are held many times throughout the year and are a big part of Brewer's extracurricular activities. Not only are they entertaining, but they can be held as fund raising projects. To help pay for uniforms and cheerleading camp, the Cheerleaders sponsored the Homecoming Dance, which was preceded by a week of festivities, adding to the spirit an overall fun of the event. Many looked upon this social as a time to just talk the evening away. "I don't even dance," said one student. "Never have. Probably never will." Another said, "I just go to listen to the music." The other precentage who did dance still had a good time. While most dance simply for fun, some dance to work out aggression and adolescent stress. One boy said, "I really feel better after hittin' that floor a few times!" Of late, however, dances have been turned, in part, into breakdancing matches. Every so often during a dance, a crowd forms (in a rough circle of course). If you can fight your way through, you will see young males and females gliding across the floor in strange, seemingly effortless motions that would baffle Fred Astaire or Gene Kelly! These intervals usually prove to be the most enjoyable (and, probably for the dancers, the most tiring!) times, during a dance. High School Dances are perhaps summed up best by one freshman, "I just get out there and become part of the music!"

Miss Patrian Pageant

The 1985 Miss Patrian Pageant was held on February 9, 1985. The Pageant consisted of seventy-one contestants and was produced by the Patrian staff. Entertainment was provided by the Southern Dance Academy.

The girls were judged on beauty and poise in two categories: the sportswear and the evening gown competition. After the top five were chosen, they were asked questions by the Master of Ceremonies, and the final decision was made.

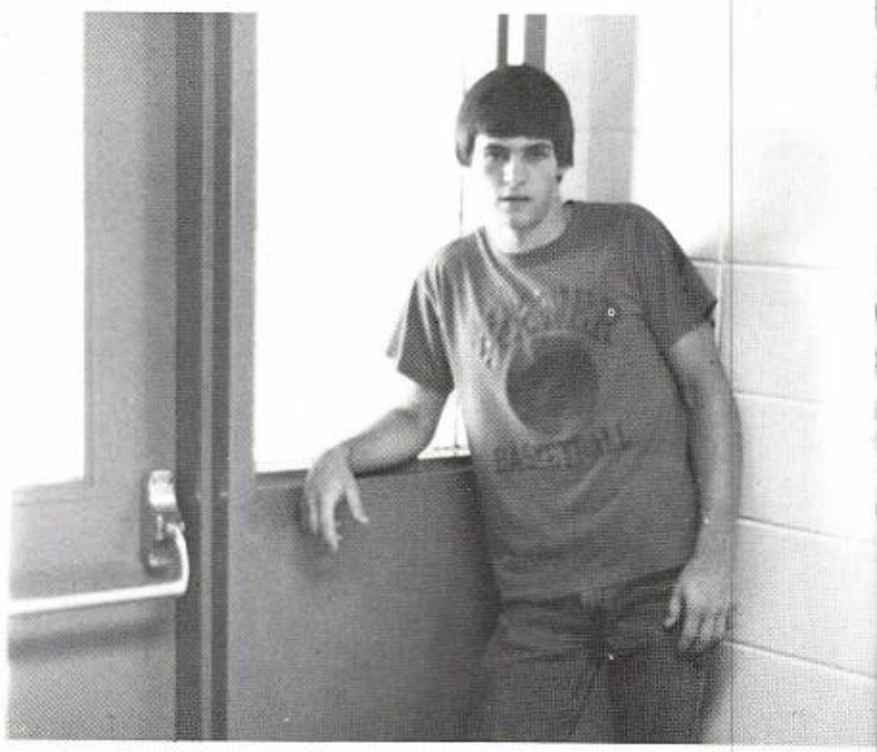
Junior Magazine Sales

Magazine sales fell short of the projected goal of $12,000 even though the selection of magazines (right, below) offers something for every interest. Competition between individuals and homerooms for prizes is used to encourage sales. Prizes are awarded to individuals for daily sales and overall sales. Greg Abercrombie (right, above) was top salesman. Mrs. Holmes' homeroom (above) sold the greatest dollar total and won the soft drink party.

Traditionally, a portion of the profits from sales is used to pay the cost of hosting the prom, from invitations to refreshments. The remainder of the money is used the following year when the class leaves its legacy in the form of a class gift. Some gifts are the collective gifts of several classes. Gifts in the past have included landscaping, the open court, the school's signboard, a covered walkway from the gym, and tennis courts.



Ordering Class Rings

Ed Oody, Billy Goodman, Paul Holmes, Phillip Eidson and Tim Tate show off the 1986 class rings.

When sophomores begin sporting blue plastic ring sizers, class rings are being ordered. The Balfour representative distributes packets with the sizers and descriptions of hundreds of possible choices, ranging from the traditional to styles that don't even look like class rings. The student can create a ring that is uniquely his own, choosing not only style but also stone color, and inscriptions. A deposit is paid when the order is made.

Juniors see the choices become reality. It is, according to one junior, "exciting when the rings arrive." It is an important time, a passage, it "makes you feel big."

Talent Show

The Talent Show allows students to exhibit their talents in an annual production of the yearbook staff.

The 1985 Talent Show began with Stephen Penick and Julie McVey singing an inspirational duet titled "I've Seen Jesus." Next, Chris Evans and Pam Bowling sang, "The Warrior is a Child." Mekima Garth sang with Lionel Richie's hit song, "Hello." Veronica Absher danced to Axile Foley. The Dance team members Lisa Keen, Tina Bowling, Debbie Wiley, Kristy Ransom, Suzanne Atkins, Patti Brown, Tiffany Faulk, Jada Johnson, Beth Giers, and Tonya Jones performed a routine to Prince's "1999." Richard Brown, Alan Thurston, and Ken Edmonson performed a break dancing routine to "Electric Boogaloo." Kellie Southerland played the electric piano and sang the Judd's award-winning, "Mama He's Crazy." Sonya Clay performed the Electric Boogaloo," the Moon Wall, Pop Lockin, and King Tut to the music "Egyptians Lover." Allen Smith on electric piano, Phillip Spann on guitar, and Tray Walden on drums played an original composition. Allison Simms played a medley of classical, romantic, and popular tunes on the piano. Melisa Bagwell performed a jazz dance routine to the theme song of "The Twilight Zone: The Movie."

Becky Henderson, Mrs. Karen McCaghren, and Pam Paustian were the directors of the play.

The play could not have been a success without the support of the crew that put the play together. The make-up crew had to learn how to apply make-up on everyone so that the cast would look appropriate. The sound crew had to find tapes or other means of sound to make the play seem realistic. The costume crew found appropriate costumes for the cast members. The prop crew created the entire setting of The Curious Savage.

REHEARSAL

John Carnell has trouble seeing what is happening behind him.

Becky Henderson is tired from a long night of practice.

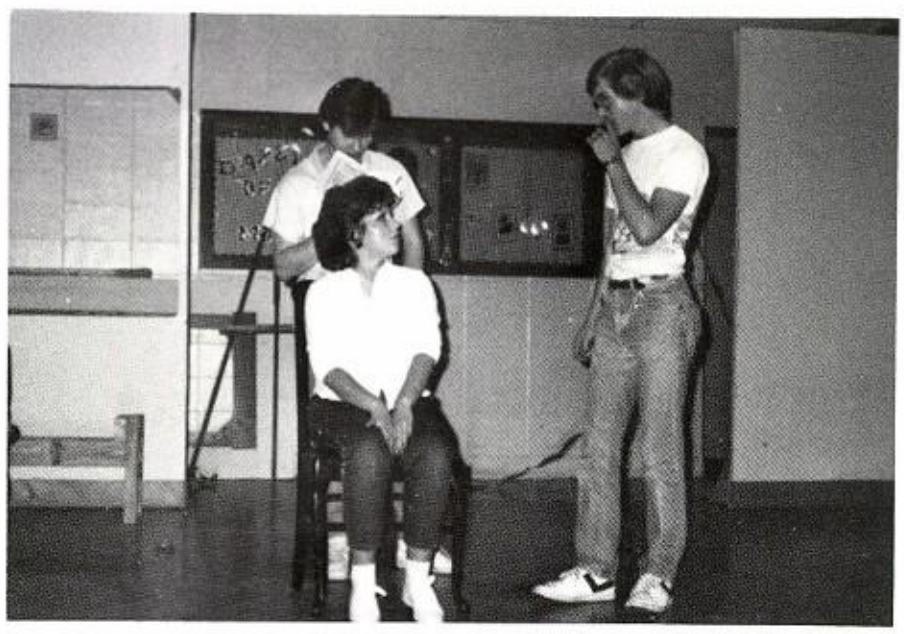
Kelly Johnson and MeLisa Bagwell decide who is to be searched first.

Mrs. McCaghren, Todd Thomas, Sandy Bates, and Mike Spray take a break.



Mike Spray has trouble remembering lines.

The Final Product

Guests point out that reading the paper will only make Mrs. Savage unhappy.

"Shame on you and you AND YOU!"

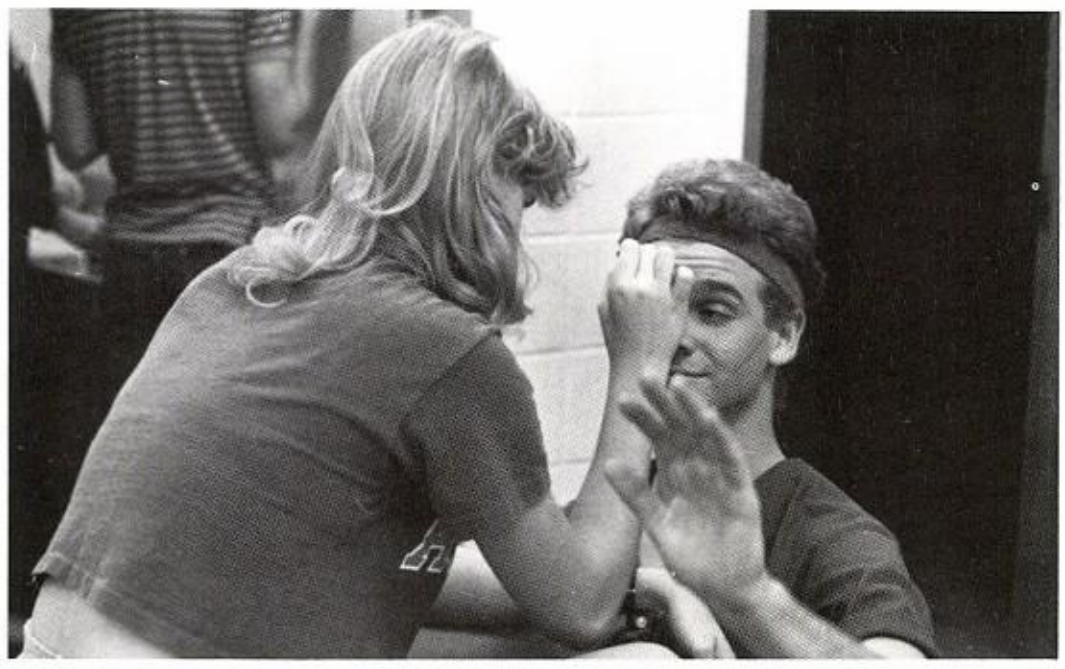
Lily Belle recovers from the black-out.

"Mirror, mirror on the wall, who's the best dressed of them all? Fairy WHO?"

Hannibal exercises after dinner so that his conscience won't needle him.

Mrs. Savage and guests wear the carpet out evenly.

Mrs. Savage reveals the bonds hidden inside of her bear.



John Carnell explores the miracle of make-up.

The Curious Savage, written by John Patrick, was presented on April 11-13 at Brewer High School.

After becoming a widow, Mrs. Savage realized she had never done all the crazy things she had always wanted to do. She had settled down and married Jonathon Savage at the early age of sixteen. Because of her crazy actions following Jonathon's death, Mrs. Savage's three rich, spoiled children put her in an asylum called The Cloisters. The greedy children wished control of ten million dollars that their father had left to her. Mrs. Savage, however, seemed to be a conservative and normal woman, aside from the fact she had an obsession: carrying a teddy bear with her everywhere. Mrs. Savage told them she had hidden the money. One by one she told the children of a place to look for the money. She had Lily Belle hunting inside the porpoise in the Museum of Natural History. Samuel dug under a chimney that collapsed and injured him. Titus, the senator, searched in the President's hothouse under the petunia bed. All came up empty. As a last resort the children threatened Mrs. Savage with the "truth drug." Having no alternatives, Mrs. Savage revealed bonds which were hidden inside her bear. Just as Mrs. Savage had taken out the bonds, a patient at the asylum flipped off the lights. When the lights were finally turned back on, the bonds were gone. It was obvious that Mrs. Paddy had taken the bonds and run. Later Miss Willie revealed ashes of the bonds that Mrs. Paddy had obviously burned. The children left the asylum poor, angry, and hurt. Mrs. Savage, having no reason for staying in the asylum, was able to leave. The guests insisted on giving her going away presents — despite the fact they refused to say goodbye to her. Miss Willie, the staff member, also gave Mrs. Savage a present: the bonds. Miss Willie had seen that Mrs. Savage loved giving away money even if it were for foolish causes. Miss Willie knew that Mrs. Savage was quite normal and that she was only trying to enjoy her final years. It was for this reason that Miss Willie had taken the bonds when the lights went out and burned papers to make it look convincing. Mrs. Savage left the asylum with her money and memory of the wonderful people she came to know and love at The Cloisters.

DECORATING PROM 1985

Honor Students

Each year, the top five percent of graduating seniors are selected to be Honor Students. These students must meet certain requirements to be chosen. Each student must have taken a total of nine college prep courses: three in the ninth grade and two each in the tenth, eleventh, and twelfth grades. Then the semester avarage of all academic courses are taken from the student's cumulative record and averaged.

This year, ten students were chosen out of the graduating senior class to be Honor Students. Each Honor Student is responsible for a part of the graduation ceremony. The students chosen this year and responsibility at graduation are as follows:

David Hazel — Invocation
DeAnn Burt — America and Alma Mater
Suzanne Atkins — Introduction
Tanja Wunsch — Tribute to Parents
Keith Whitesides — Tribute to Teachers
Mary Bartlett — Tribute to School
Tonya Maples — Scholarships and Awards
Julie Hastings — Presentation of Class Gift
Edith Walker — Introduction of Speaker
Becky Henderson — Farewell

Suzanne Atkins

Suzanne is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Atkins. She has participated in the Junior and Senior Youth for Christ, Junior and Senior Science Club, Sportsman Club, and the Future Homemakers of America. Mr. and Miss Brewer High School are Keith Whitesides and Pam Oldacre. These seniors are selected by the faculty for their contribution to the school. Mr. and Miss BHS possess such qualities as confidence, courtesy, dependability, willingness to cooperate and friendliness. They also have good attitudes, a high scholastic standing, respect for school property, school spirit and have participated in extracurricular activities.

It is interesting to note that the class of 1985 is the first to have been freshmen at Brewer. Keith Whitesides stated that "Our class was a little nervous and uneasy when we came to Brewer, but I think we have enjoyed being Brewer's first freshman class. The extra year has allowed us to develop strong ties of friendship with each other."

Pam Olacre feels similarly. "The class of 1985 has contributed greatly to the fulfillment of Brewer as a high school by adding the first ninth grade athletic teams and allowing Brewer to expand to compensate for its larger student body."

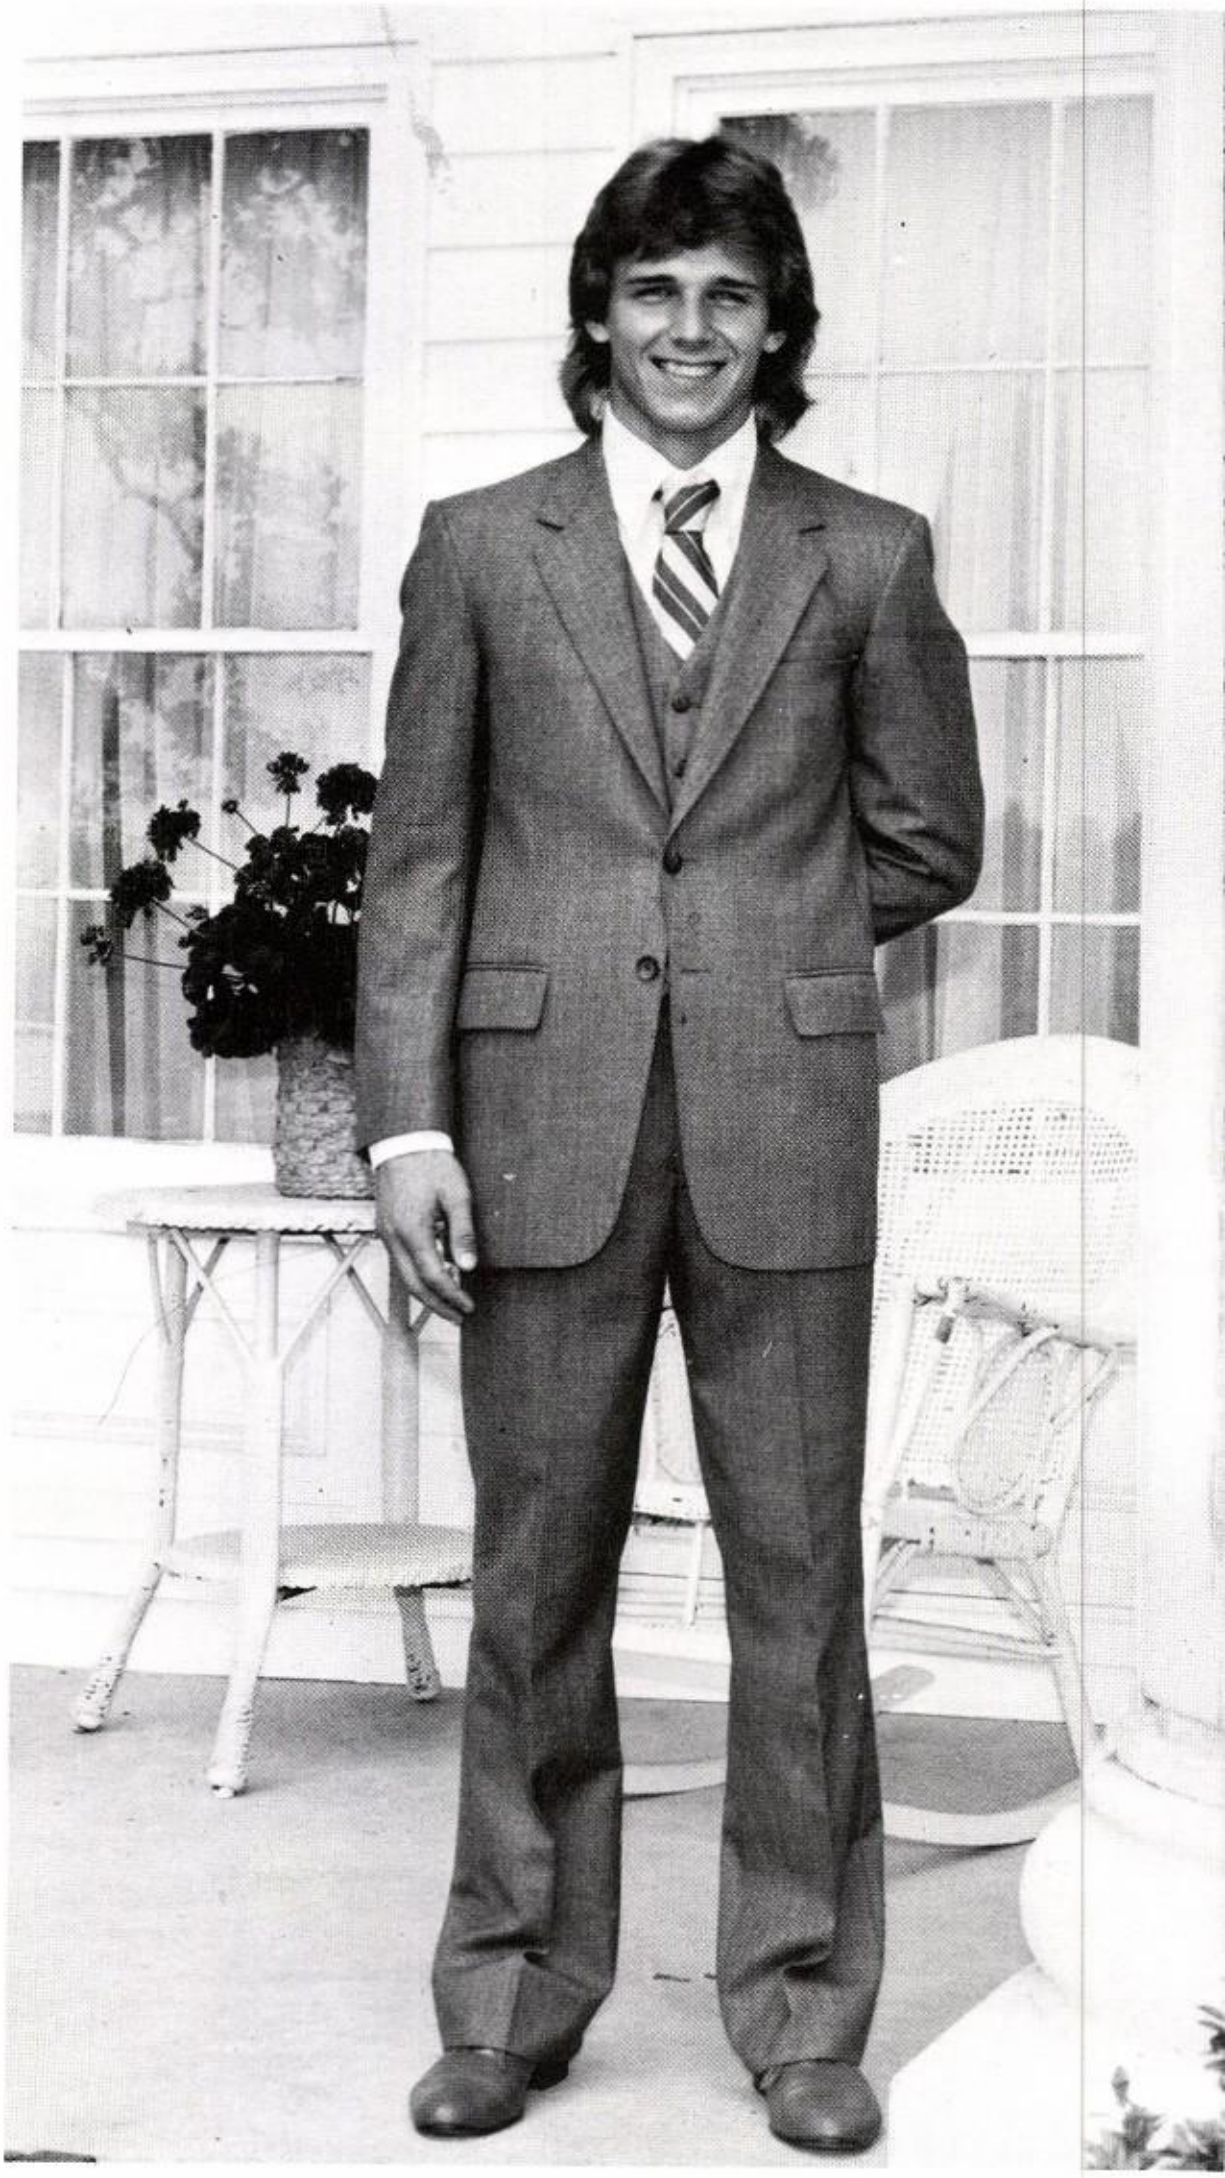
Mr. Patriot



Tim Hodson

Tim Hodson has played football at Brewer for four years and has lettered three of those years. One unforgettable game for Tim was the 7-6 victory over Decatur in his junior year at Brewer. In addition to playing football, Tim has also run track for three years, lettering two years. Tim set school records in the 400 meter dash, the mile relay, and the triple jump. Awards and honors include Defensive Back Award, 110% Award, Team Captain, and Decatur Daily All-Area Team.

Miss Patriot

Pam Oldacre

Playing basketball and volleyball for Brewer High School have proven quite rewarding for Pam Oldacre. Pam received All County in basketball and volleyball for the past three years and All Area during her eleventh and twelfth grade years. Awards and honors include Most Valuable Player Award, Star Award, Team Captain, Rebound Award, and Academic Athletic Army Reserve Honor.

Senior Field Day

Because of a decision by the State Board of Education, a Brewer tradition was cancelled. But the seniors began what could be a new tradition. Mr. Tucker arranged a half-day field day for seniors to play. Seniors brought lunches, changed into shorts and met in the football stadium. There were football, softball, and frisbee games. Alan Smith, Phillip Spann, and Tray Walden entertained their fellow seniors after they set up equipment on the track. When students started a water balloon battle, things began to change. Walking on the track meant getting wet . . . even the band. When the instruments began to be in danger, the instruments band and the instruments "left." Building pyramids, climbing the goal post, listening to music and socializing with classmates ended with the shooting of a group picture.

English

English requirements include writing in the ninth grade; mythology, grammar, and speech in tenth grade; writing, American literature, and a research paper in eleventh grade; and English literature and a research paper in twelfth grade.

Speech is a class in which the fundamentals of public speaking are taught. Among them: clarity, proper stance, gesture, expression, and volume. Students give extemporaneous, some impromptu, speeches on personal experience or other topics, as well as informative and informational speeches.

Math Department

Basic math, Algebra I, Algebra II, geometry, trigonometry, and calculus are among the math classes offered at Brewer High School. One of the basic purposes for such a variety of math courses is to create more interest in math. With newer jobs that technology has provided for people, mathematics has become an important high school course to prepare one for these new jobs. With the growing interest in computer technology, a computer lab was furnished for students and faculty and was placed in the new math wing over the cafeteria. Math classes use the computer lab to learn the skills needed to prepare for future computer usage.

Social Studies

The History Department has many things to offer. One history teacher stated, "Our American heritage and patriotism are two topics stressed within the history curriculum." This year there were numerous films, videos, and guest speakers on taxes, history, politics, and current affairs. There are five subjects in the History Department: Alabama history: past history, politics, and current events in Alabama: current affairs: current international, national, and local events; geography: map-reading skills and world cultures; world history: economic, religions, social and military developments in the world; American history: past history to current affairs in America; democracy/economics: politics, banking, taxes and careers. Of the five subjects, Alabama history and democracy/economics are required; the others are electives.

Science

Many courses are offered by Brewer's Science Department, ranging from different levels of general science to biology, physiology, chemistry, and physics.

With money raised by the Senior Science Club members the department has added a computer. The students participated in can and paper drives to add to the money from previous years.

The Junior Science Club hosts a Science Fair for the students of Brewer. The winners are taken to the North Alabama Regional Science and Engineering Fair that is held at Calhoun. Brewer had eight winners at the Regional competition. Three students from the regional competition, who were invited to participate on the state level, won awards.

Art

The Art Department is designed to motivate the student to sharpen his powers of observation and concentration by introducing him to the art media.

The art class is an elective offered to all students. Art class concentrates on charcoal drawings, tempera painting, crafts, art appreciation and history, among other things. All projects are graded by Mrs. Tilley and an assistant on the basis of originality, attractiveness, and effort. Periodical written examinations are given to evaluate the students' abilities.

Agribusiness

Agribusiness teaches a wide spectrum of agricultural subjects, such as forestry, woodworking, livestock, small engines, electricity, and welding.

Agribusiness helps prepare students for a career in agriculture and other related fields. Students are taught employment skills and shop procedures.

If they stay in the four-year program, they receive more detailed and specialized training in occupation programs. Agribusiness is a valuable reference for students who are seeking employment in agricultural-oriented areas.

This year the agribusiness program's major projects included building cabinets for the TMR class, building a tractor, and construction of a barn for the Future Farmers of American show calves on campus.

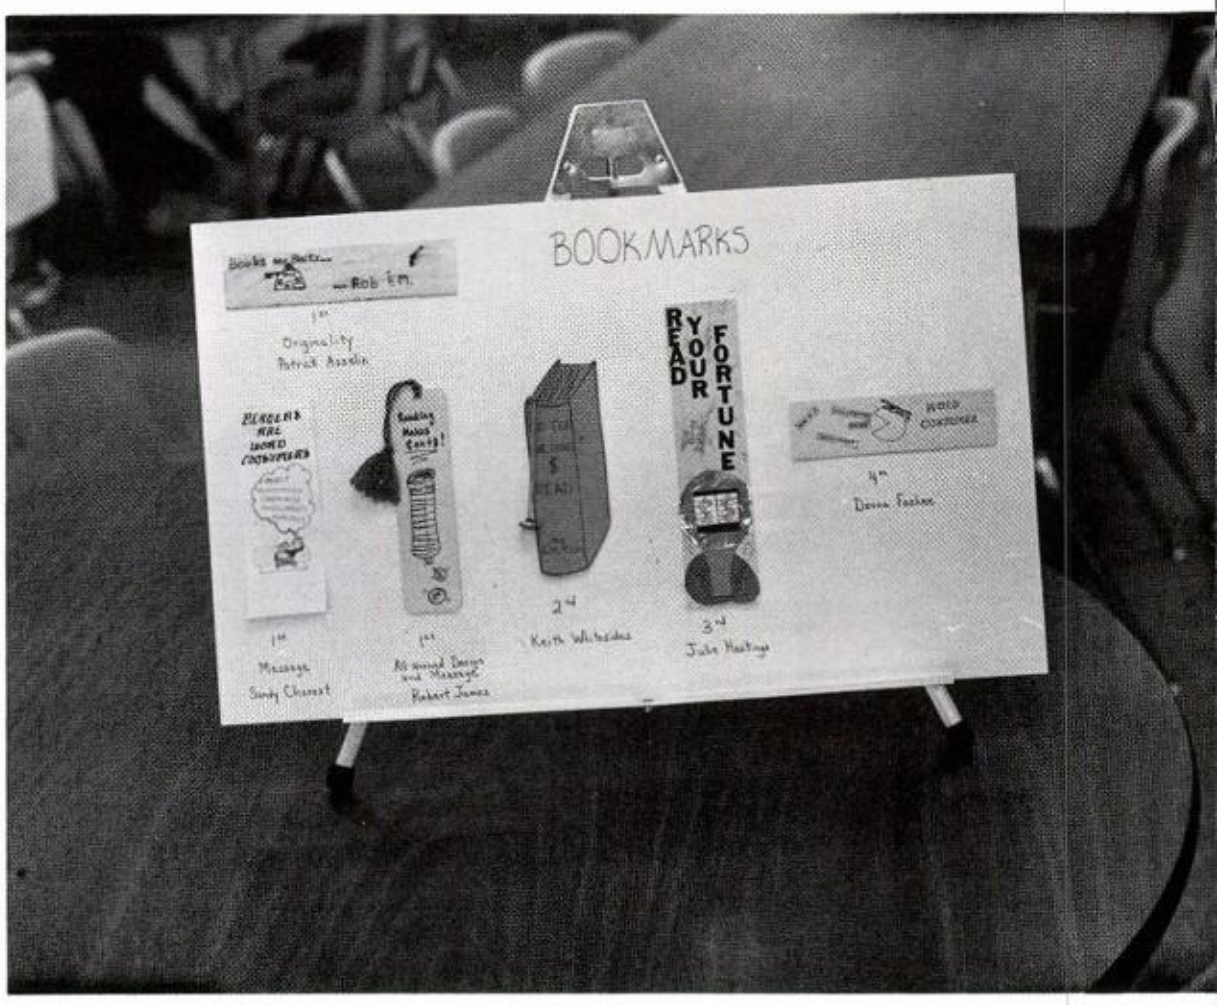
Media Center assistants are responsible for checking and shelving books, checking out magazines, using auido-visual equipment, and running errands. They are chosen on the basis of their application and grades. They also get minor credits, as it is a learning experience for students. Assistants get on-the-job experience in dealing with people. Of late, the Media Center has undergone computerization. No longer do they stamp cards and such. Today, they simply skim a light pen over a bar-code label and your name is immediately on record as having that book out. Our students and teachers have access to a computer, the video room, magazines, and a host of books and records.



T.A.G.

Students who participate in the T.A.G. class are not there for the game of tag but are forty students who qualify as the Talented and Gifted members of the school.

To get in the program students must have good grades and score in the top five percent of students in the United States on the Scholastic Aptitude Test. The students are then referred to a screening committee who decides if they should be tested. The tests that are used are the Stanford Binet and the WISC-R, which are given orally. The students must successfully complete these tests to be accepted into the program.

Enrichment units that stimulate the student's own ideas about different subjects are taught. The courses are not usually taught in a normal classroom.

Mrs. Slaby, the T.A.G. teacher, says her job is not "run of the mill teaching" but rather unusual, and adds that "Gifted Education should be unusual."

One of the classrooms in the new wing is being used as a computer lab. The Morgan County Board of Education purchased the twenty Apple II computers. Teachers use the computers for keeping records and grades, as teaching aides, and to teach computer skills. Because the computer lab is considered a part of the math department, the class use is scheduled through Ms. Jester, chairman of the department.

Business Office

Business office education is a two hour class in which students learn skills to prepare them for office jobs. There are three programs that make up BOE: accounting, stenographic, and clerical. Each program consists of five courses. The accounting program is for those interested in jobs such as bookeeping, junior accountant, or bank teller. The stenographic program prepares for a career involving secretarial skills. The clerical program is for students interested in jobs such as that of file clerk, general clerk, etc. BOE is also a stepping-stone towards a college degree in Business Administration.

Clothing Production

Clothing production provides training for students who wish to become professional seamstresses. Clothing production teaches the operation of industrial sewing machines, elements of design and principles of art related to commercial sewing and alterations, skills in construction processes of garments, home furnishings, and the use, care, and storage of equipment involved in commercial sewing. The students use these skills in class to prepare garments, home crafts, and alterations. When completed, the projects are often displayed.

Floraculture and Horticulture

Floraculture is for eleventh and twelfth graders who are interested in flower arranging, corsage construction, and other floral arrangements. They make Christmas decorations, Homecoming corsages, and wedding flowers. They also arranged flowers for the Miss Patrian Pageant. The floraculture students work mostly with silk and artificial flowers, but sometimes they work with dried arrangements and cut flower arrangements. The students sell the arrangements for a small profit to help finance the program.

Horticulture is a part of vocational agribusiness education. There is basic horticulture for ninth and tenth graders and advanced horticulture for eleventh and twelfth graders. In basic horticulture the students learn how to plant seeds, make cuttings to root, and grow plants. They also learn about greenhouse production of plants and identification of house plants, bedding plants, shrubs, and trees. Plants are sold from the greenhouse for a small profit to help finance the program. There are sixty-five students in this course.

In advanced horticulture, the seventeen students learn about greenhouse management and landscape designs. This horticulture class maintains tulips and shrubs in the open court and alongside the wall between the gym and cafeteria.

Family Living

Family living is a sociology course taught by Mrs. Emmons. This class studies family life. Family living has a special project the class does each year; they have a wedding with a reception afterward, usually in late March or early April. The class tries to make the wedding as realistic as possible, including a wedding dress, a wedding cake and a "mother" and "father" for each the bride and groom. There is a "minister" as well to join the man and woman in matrimony. There is an individual wedding for each period. The main purpose is to get a small insight into the preparation for a real wedding.

In all photos: Students participate in a wedding ceremony.

Music Department

The music department includes both instrumental and choral music. Students who are interested in singing for their own enjoyment take chorus, and students who are interested in playing an instrument take band.

There are two sections of chorus: concert chorus and regular chorus. Regular chorus is mostly made up of beginners, and anyone interested in singing may take regular chorus. To be in concert chorus, each student must pass an audition. The concert chorus also sings for local junior high schools. There are sixty students in this group which Mr. Tate directs.

The band performs throughout the year. The band has a Christmas Concert and Spring Concert and performs during the half-time at football games. Some band members attend Solo and Ensemble Contest to earn medals for performance. There are approximately 145 students in the band. Each year the band members play their instrument for Mr. Crawley, the director, and the students are judged on how they play. Based on performance during tryouts, the students earn "chairs." The best player is ranked "first chair."

Auto Body and Repair

Welding

Almost every industry in America uses some type or form of welding. The welding industry is very specialized and the welder needs a good knowledge in many areas of welding such as acetylene, electric arc, heliarc, brazing, siver soldering, MIG, TIG, and spot welding. Welding offers the student the opportunity to learn the necessary skills needed to qualify for jobs in the future.

Auto Mechanics

The Brewer Area Vocational Center offers an up-to-date facility for students to develop their skills in automotive repair.

The two-year service course provides an opportunity for first year students to learn the basic workings of automobiles, including how to change the oil, rework the engine and change the electrical wiring. Second year students review all of the basics, and study the make-up of the entire automobile.

Drivers' Education

Squealing wheels, screeching brakes, and crashing automobiles were all a part of driver's education — or at least part of what the Driver's Education Department tried to prevent.

Each year around ninety percent of the sophomores take driver's education. The students spend six weeks in the classroom where they learn about driving and then discuss it. The students also watch films about how accidents happen and what happens when a person drinks and drives. Their guest speaker this year was Mr. Bagwell, a state trooper, who spoke about safety.

After six weeks in the classroom, Mr. Atkins and Mr. Norris give the students an opportunity to drive. Mr. Atkins and Mr. Norris tell the students what they are doing wrong and right to improve driving skills.

Radio and Television

In electric product servicing, once known as radio and television, students learn to diagnose the problems of radio and television as well as types of audio equipment such as eight-track and cassette players, record players, basic electricity, basic electronics, basic radio circuitry, plus audio equipment circuitry.

Bus Drivers and Custodians

Bus drivers must meet certain requirements before being certified. These requirements include a week-long training course in which they learn road and safety rules, and yearly class instruction. Bus drivers are then required to take a road test with a State Trooper.

Like mailmen, bus drivers trudge through rain, shine, and extremely hazardous driving conditions. They have the difficult job of getting students safely to and from school while maintaining a peaceful atmosphere.

Top Photo: Bus drivers pose for an annual picture. Bottom Photo: Mr. and Mrs. Flack pose with a student helper for a picture.

Mr. Flack's workday usually starts at 7:00 a.m. when he opens the school gates, and ends around seven o'clock at night. His work here at Brewer includes cleaning the school and maintaining the school campus. He also has the task of completing most of the "handy work" around the school. He is assisted by the Job Parternship Training Act workers, his wife, Shirley Flack, and the school's students. For Mr. Flack, the most rewarding part of his comes every time that Brewer High School is recognized and commended for its beautiful campus and clean school building, and it is then that Mr. Flack is most proud to say that he is a part of Brewer High School.

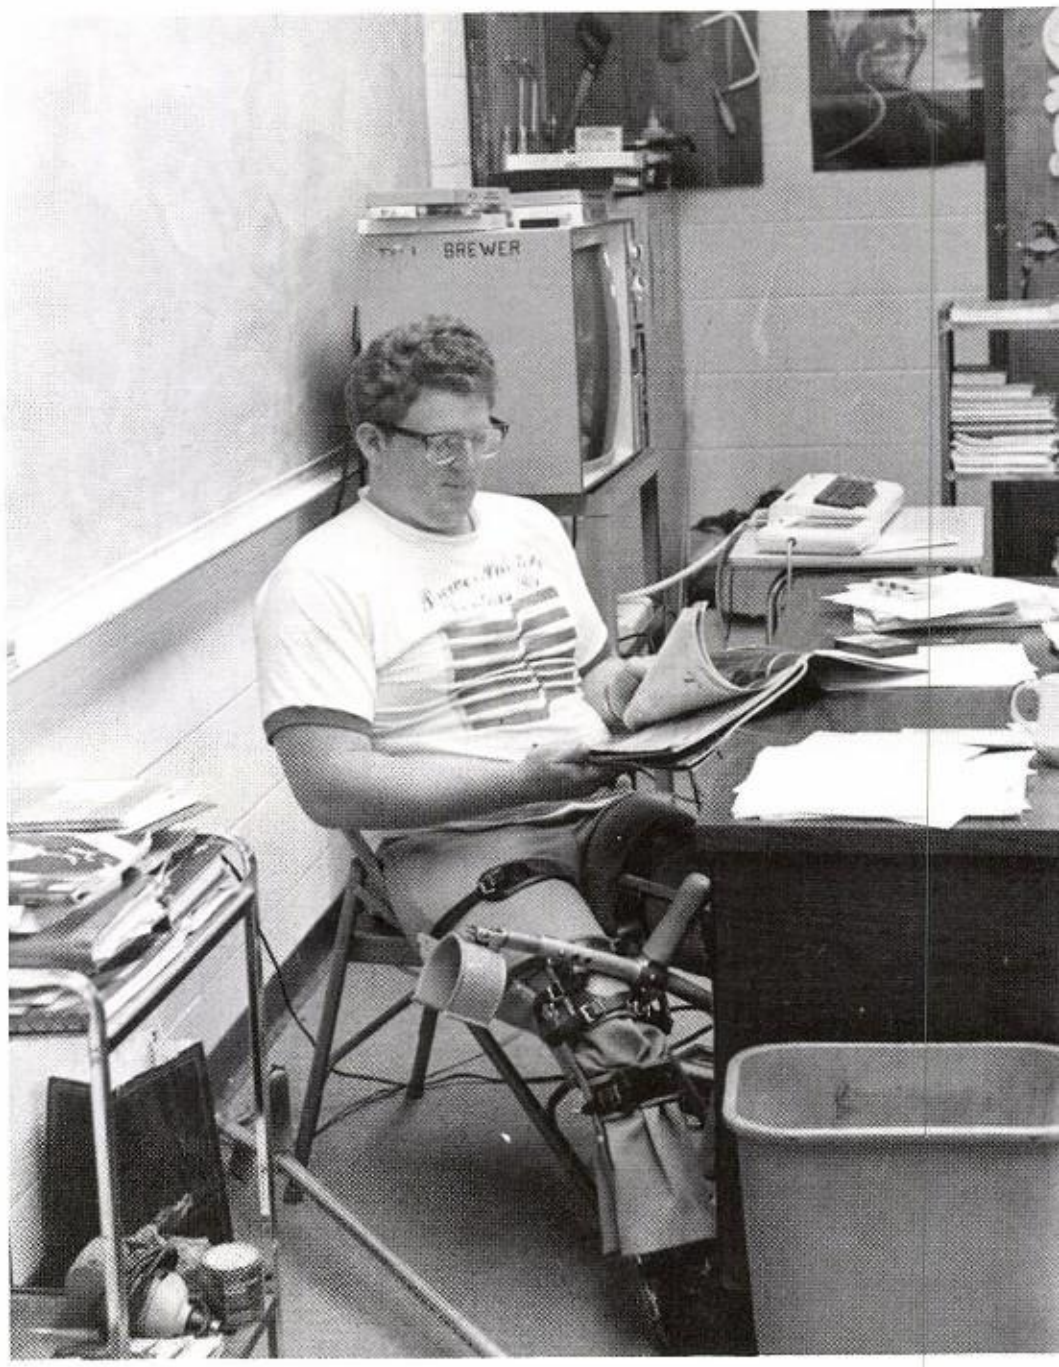
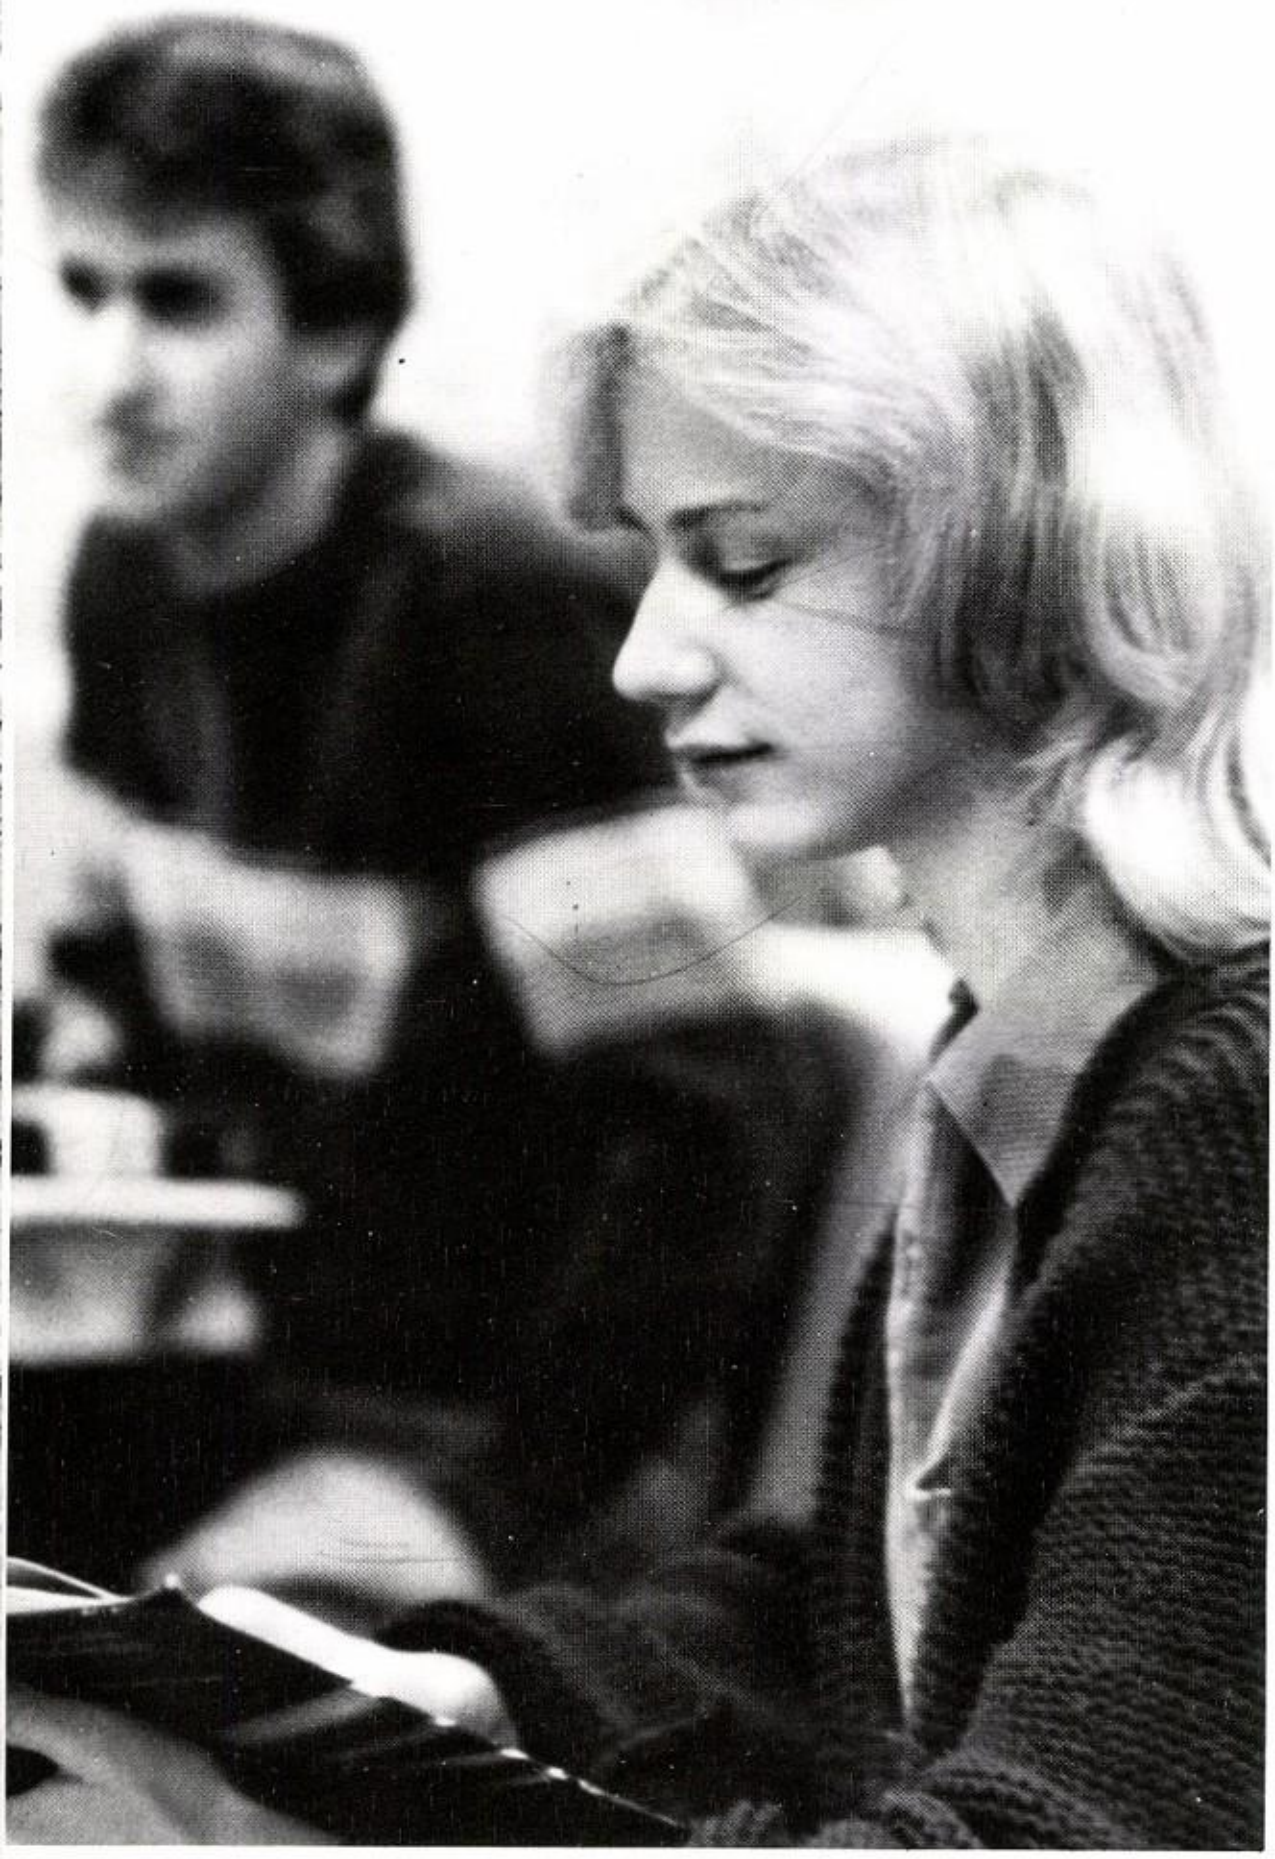
Larry Champion

Despite being born paralyzed from the waist down, Larry Champion has become a success story. Born with a 50/50 chance of survival, Larry has overcome the odds with nineteen trips to the hospital and grim determination. Now paralyzed from the knees down, Larry is actively involved in school activities including the chorus. He has not only helped himself, but has helped others accept and overcome their handicaps. Because of his work, Larry was the recipient of an achievement award from the Alabama Rehabilitation Association.



Larry finds time to relax during a school day.



Stephan Lewark, son of Mr. and Mrs. Siegfriend Lewark, was an exchange student this year from Hanover, West Germany. While staying in America, Stephan lived with Mr. and Mrs. Bo Braze. Their daughter Shannon is a student at Brewer and Scott, a graduate in 1984, lived with Stephan's family in West Germany.

Stephan is planning a career in electronics or politics. He found the United States very different from West Germany. The level of education in Germany is far ahead of that in the United States. In Germany, courses like calculus, electronics, and foreign language are taught at the junior high level. The music is also different: David Bowie is perhaps the only common ground. Stephan felt the attitudes about sex, alcohol, and religion were much more liberal in Germany.

Though Stephan did not like the United States when he first arrived, he said that he grew to enjoy the customs: county fairs, football games; and that he made many long lasting friends.

With deep regret it was learned by students that Stephan was killed in an accident soon after his return to Germany, but his memory lives on inside the hearts of his many friends.

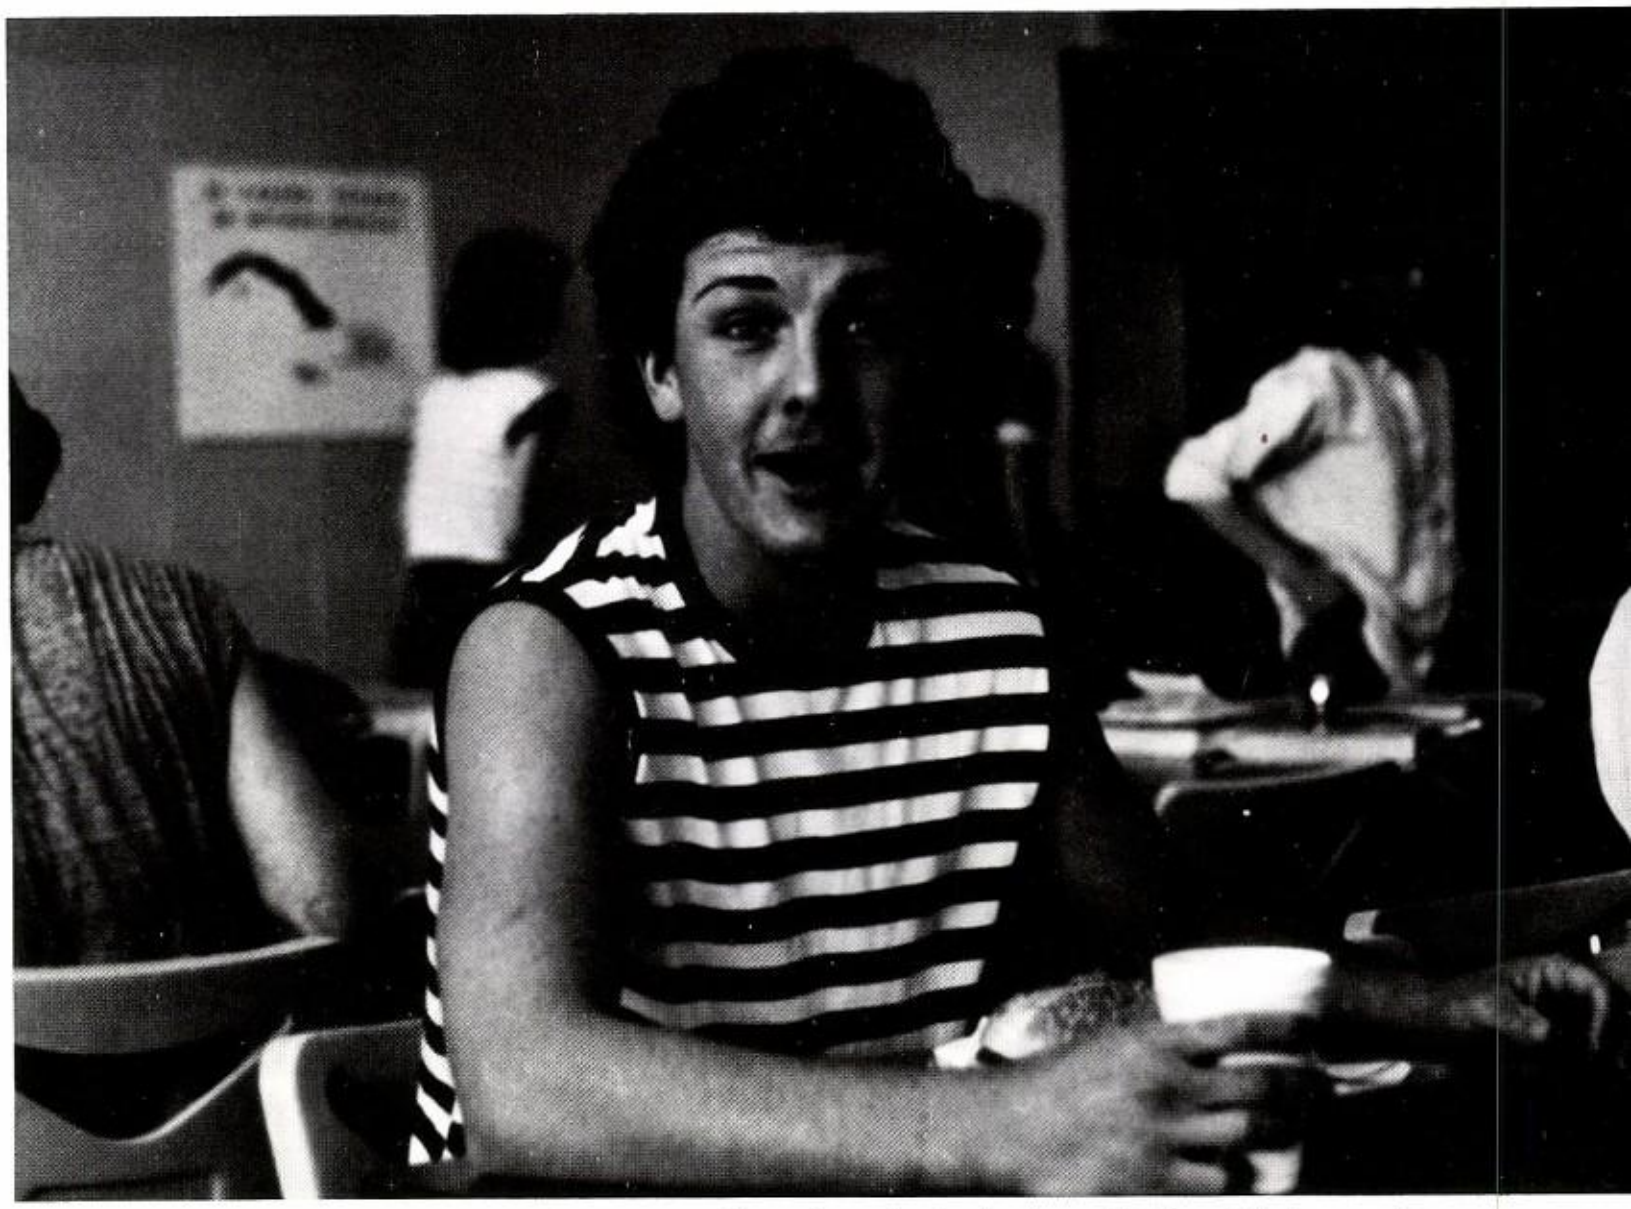
Lunch-Time



Bo Alexander is only one of the many students who enjoy the food served in the cafeteria every day.

Two words can describe the cafeteria workers at Brewer High School: hardworking and dedicated. Every day these ladies work hard to prepare a meal the students will enjoy. They devote many hours in service to the school. Not only do they work hard to prepare the meals, they also serve the meal with something the students do not have to pay for, a smile! Ladies, a big Thank You to all of you.

Improvements for B.H.S.

Brewer is thirteen years old this year. This may seem unlucky to some people, but for Brewer High School it is not. During the past four years, our school has prospered with improvements that range from a tennis court to a computer room.

1981: The concession stands and permanent restrooms were built on the football field simply because the portable ones could not accommodate the people. This is one of many improvements the Booster Club has funded. This was also the year that ninth graders would be at Brewer; therefore, a new wing was built to accommodate the newcomers. The first couple of months were confusing in the gym. A new gym floor was being laid because of a split in the old one. Brewer added special facilities to make the handicapped more comfortable going to a regular school such as the following: water fountains, restrooms, the parking area, and ramps.

1982: The field house was built and was funded by the Booster Club. The field house is very important to the coaches and football players. It is used as a place to show films to players, as a dressing room for players, for coaches' offices, and for storing sports equipment.

1983: The band room was constructed. The old band room was too small, and was shared with chorus classes. Construction began in July and was completed the following year. The building was funded by the Board. Two greenhouses were built for horticulture in this year. Horticulture students sold plants to receive funds for this project. The Board gave money for the greenhouses' fans and heaters. The seniors of 1981 started a fund that ended with the seniors of 1983 to fund the two tennis courts.

1984: An additional greenhouse was built in this year making Brewer have three greenhouses for horticulture classes. The new wing above the cafeteria was completed. The purpose of this wing was to remove the trailers so that more room would be provided for the growing population of students, and add a computer class. The construction of the wing was approved and funded by the Board. The seniors of 1983 left money for the marking of the student parking lot which was completed in time for the 1984 school year. America is now in the age of computers. Mrs. McAnally, the librarian, computerized the library this year. She assigned each book, student, and faculty member a bar code number. Brewer was one of the first four schools in Alabama to have this computer program.

Brewer High School was designed with future development and expansion in mind.

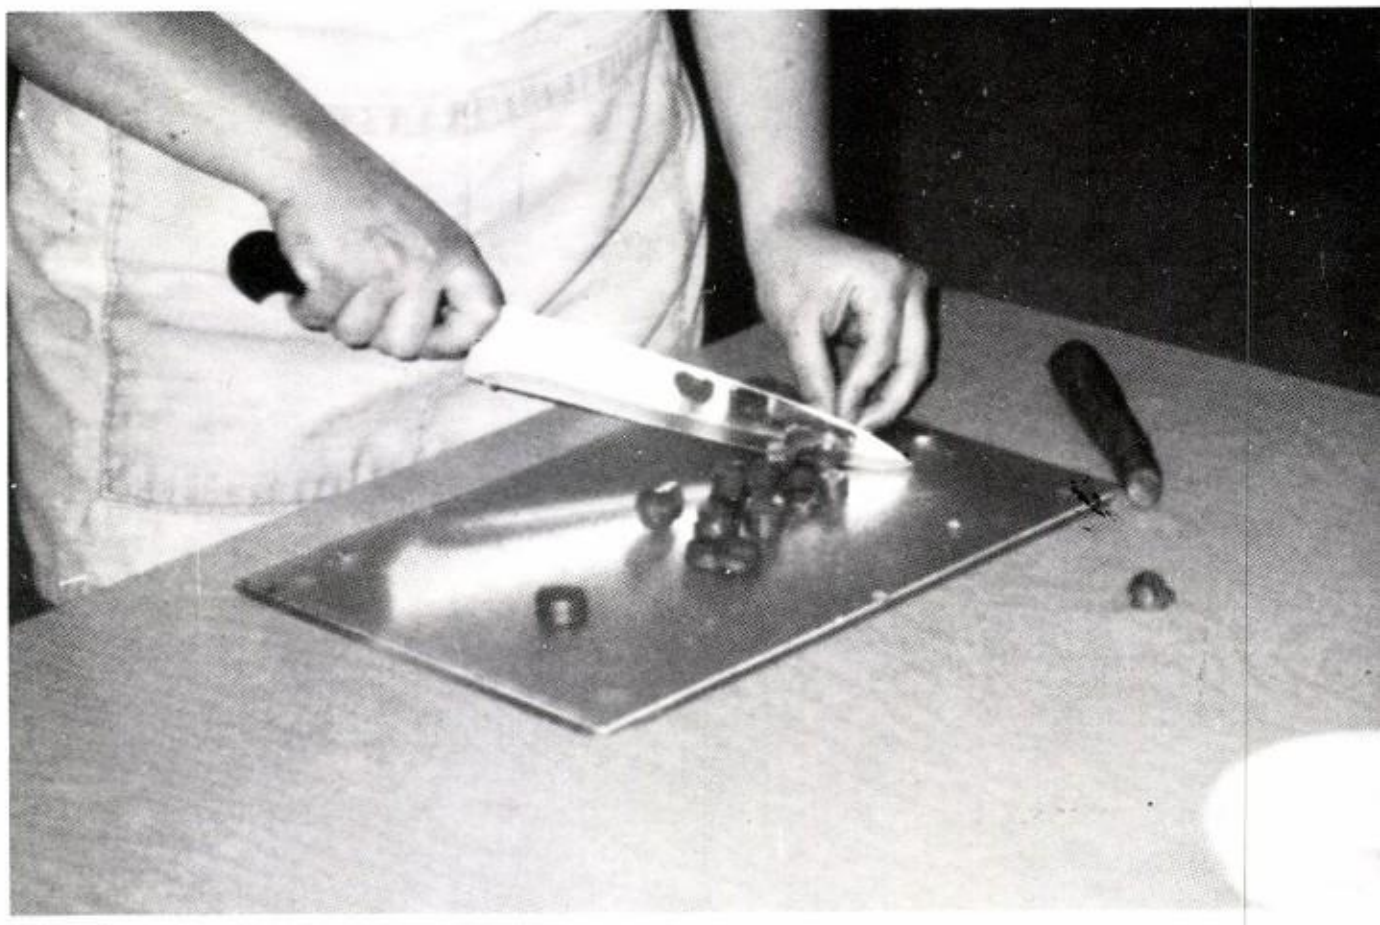
Food Production



Chopping vegetables is one of the many things learned in Food Production.

Food production is a two-hour vocational class taught by Mrs. Debbie Gillon. Students in this class prepare meals such as casseroles, meat dishes, and vegetables. They also prepare cakes, cookies, brownies, and other baked goods for people to buy. Students make special holiday foods such as gingerbread houses for Christmas, heart-shaped cakes for Valentine's Day, and bunny cakes for Easter. Orders are taken any time, but most are baked and picked up on Thursdays. Food production also prepares meals for banquets, parties, showers, and even weddings. The students in food production are taught the skills needed to work as chefs, hosts, dieticians, food inspectors, waitresses, or bakers.

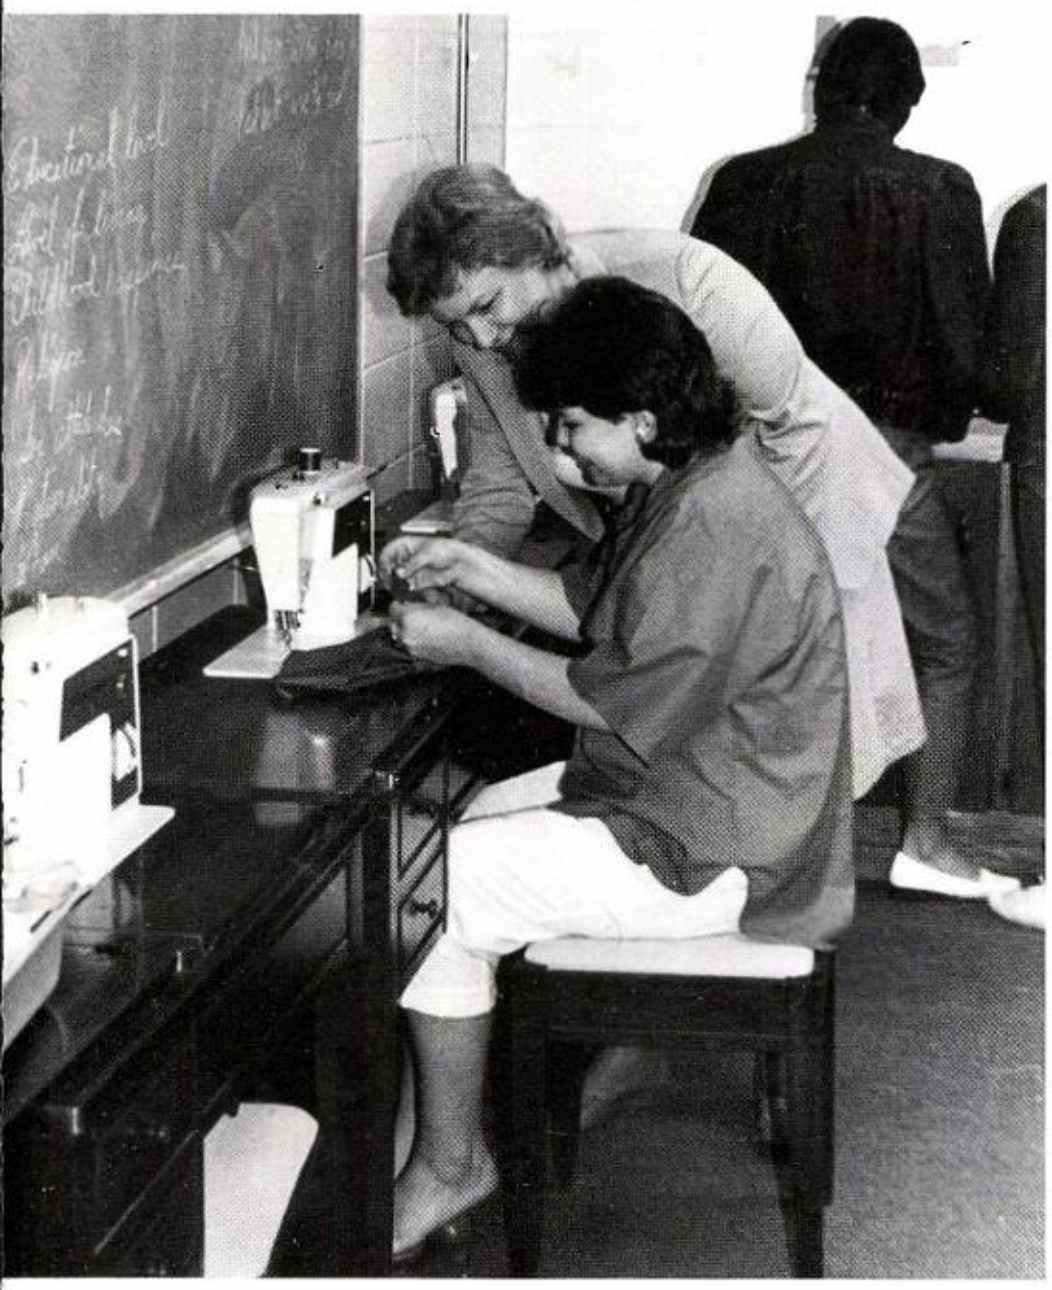
Home Economics



Home economics, a one-hour elective course, teaches the basic skills needed for any homemaker. Students in home economics plan menus, prepare meals, and learn proper etiquette. Along with the skills for preparing food, students learn sewing skills. Students learn the art of sewing and are required to make one article of clothing, such as a purse, a shirt, or a skirt. Although the class is mostly female, any person, male or female, is allowed to take the course.

To the Left: Ms. Emmons gives a few helpful hints to a student in need.

Air Conditioning and Refrigeration

Air conditioning and refrigeration is designed to provide the student with the basic knowledge and skills for servicing, repairing, operating and maintaining automatic refrigeration and air conditioning systems. Because of the many types of systems on today's market, the students do not specialize on any one particular system.

The students also learn how to silver-braze, solder, and make minor repairs on electric motors, which are a major part in air conditioning and refrigeration.

Drafting

As a graphic language, the drafting course at Brewer gives the student two ways to prepare for the future. First, the student is given sufficient background so he can enter and compete in industry, and second, if the student decides the drafting is not for him, he will have learned how to read and understand blueprints.

Every year students from Brewer compete in the Vocational Industrial Clubs of America District Skills Olympics. This year Mark Creel, a junior, won first place in Machine Drafting and Pam Paustin, also a junior, won third in Prepared Speech. Mark went on to State VICA competition to place second.

Electricity and

The electricity class prepares students for employment in the electrical trade by teaching such skills as blueprint reading, residential and commercial wiring, rewinding and repairing motors, motor controls, and home appliance repair.

Each year of this three year course, students can advance in each area of study. If they choose, students may continue the study of electricity in technical college. Skills learned in their vocational course may earn advanced placements in technical college program.

Students who successfully complete a two of three year course receive a certificate of completion.

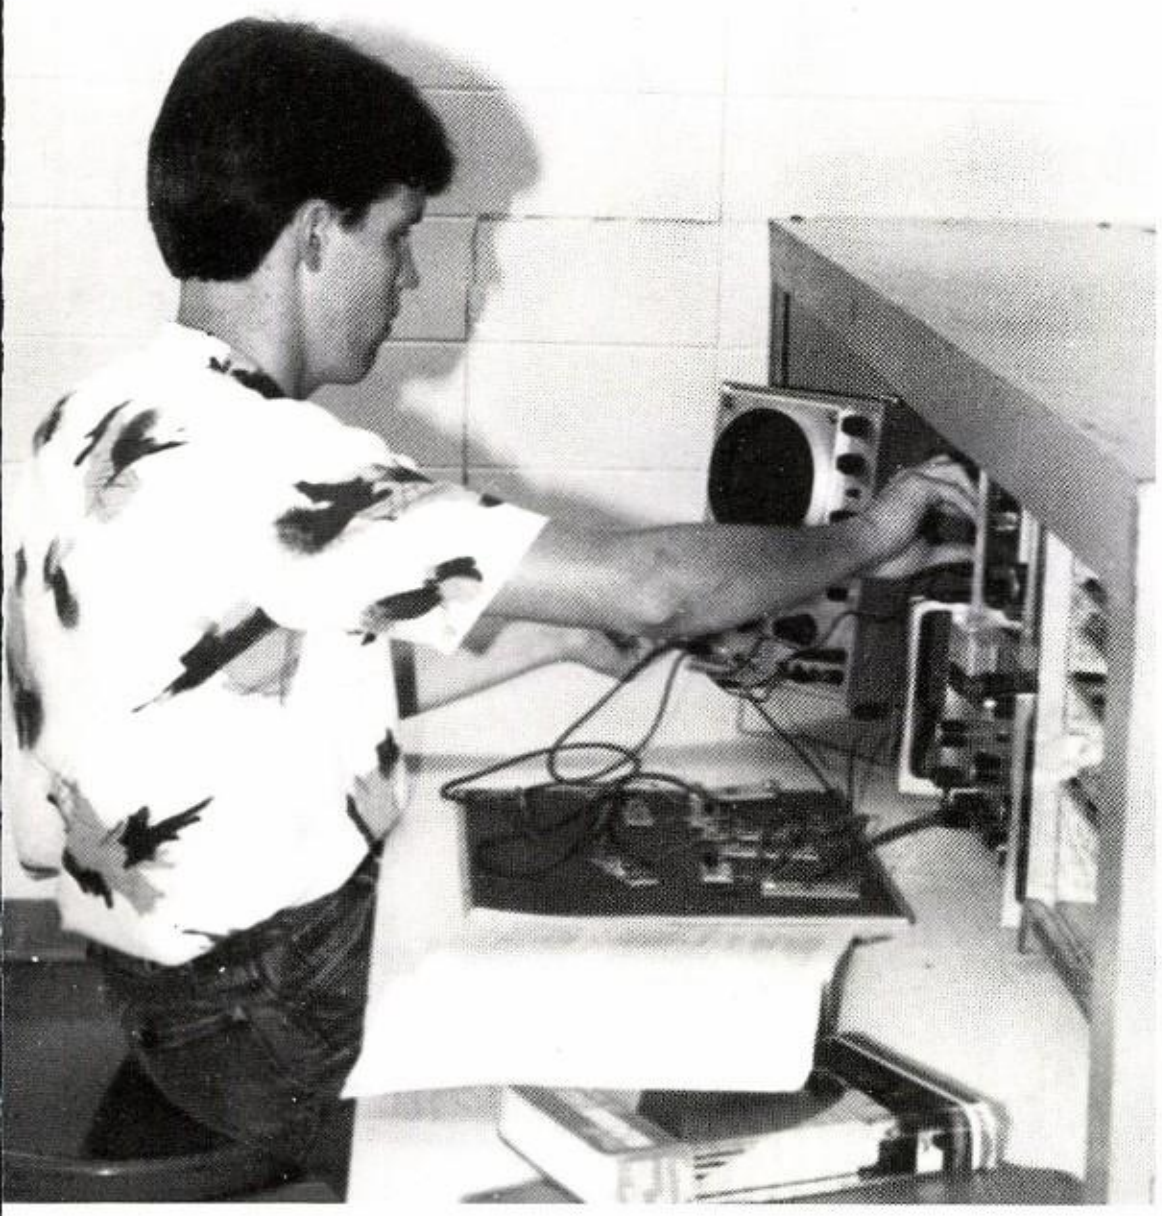
The industrial electronics class is one of the most popular of the many trades.

The two hour course is designed to prepare students for employment and advancements as an electronic technician, one of the many occupations in the electronics field. These students are offered three one-year courses, in which they advance each year.

The first year basic AC/DC electricity is taught along with mathematics, technical drawing, use of tools and equipment, and the basic electronics.

The second year students learn anything from advanced application of solid state electronics to digital electronics.

By the third year, students are ready to work with advanced digital electronics, computer programming and microprocessing.



Top Picture: Scott Johnson tests his circuit to find if there is a problem. To the Left: David Elmore works on a circuit while using his manual.

Marketing and

If a Brewer student wants to learn job skills while working and making money, he should enroll in the Marketing and Distributive Education Class. To enroll a person must pass all the subjects he takes during his first two years at Brewer, and he must have an interview with Mr. Latham, the instructor, but a previous job is not required. Mr. Latham explained that his biggest problem is having too few names of interested students to give to employers in order for interviews to be scheduled. Mr. Latham said, "I make personal visits to the employers to discuss their employee needs and then I set up interviews for the students with the employers." Not only does Mr. Latham help the students get jobs, but he teaches them skills in marketing, salesmanship, customer service, and business administration. The students also learn how a business operates in order to both satisfy customers and make a profit. The job a student gets depends on how well he learns the skills and uses his abilities. The student's jobs include those of cashiers, stockers, cooks, and other such marketing jobs. Some students work in the school store, which operates on the same principles as a real store. Mr. Latham said observing students in the school store is his way of being sure that students have mastered the marketing skills before going to work.

Brewer students also go to competitions that deal with their jobs. These include Grocery Stores (Food Marketing), Restaurant Marketing, Service Stations and General Merchandising (Walmart and K-mart). This year three students represented Brewer in state competition: Rachel Poole and Katherine Wilson in Restaurant Marketing and Pat Graveman in Food Store Marketing.

Plan of Excellence

The plan of excellence initiated by State Superintendent Wayne Teague for Alabama public schools has brought about changes at Brewer High School. These changes came about because the plan specifies that all Alabama public schools must have 360 minutes of instructional time per day. Because students are bused to and from six feeder schools, the Brewer school day could not be extended without adding extra time to the schedule at these feeder schools. This created a scheduling problem: how to get the required amount of instructional time in the existing school time. To increase instructional time, Mr. Tucker cut the amount of time alloted for homeroom, for lunch break, and for time between classes, and added this time to the existing class time.

Another change affecting Brewer included the section of the plan which requires students to attend school for 175 days per school year. Because of this part of the plan, students are no longer allowed to exempt mid-term and final exams. The previous exemption policy was based on academic average, attendance and conduct. Even though Mr. Tucker and the faculty voted to keep the exemption policy, the plan, as it was approved, does not provide for exemptions.

The plan has just been initiated into the school system. More changes may develop in the future.

The first thing that comes to mind when school is mentioned is either the three R's or nothing but books and lectures. This is true in many cases but not all. One class, Trainable Mentally Handicapped (TMH), does all this and much more. The class routine includes learning, but in many different areas, including using a calculator, reading and writing, filling out forms and using power tools. Soon, Mr. Tim Dunlap, their instructor hopes to be able to teach the students how to use a microwave oven.

Each year the students learn to use power tools so that they can make projects to sell. Mr. Dunlap teaches them assembly line work so they can learn how each person depends on another. The way he divides the work is by the skills of the students. Last year, blue-bird houses were sold. Mr. Dunlap promised the students a pizza party when the first thirty were sold. The students reached this goal before the houses actually went to market. Mr. Dunlap said, "They work very hard and take advantage of every opportunity they get." Anyone who sees the students working in class can see just how true this is.

Mr. Dunlap has one aide, Mrs. Fray Wiggington, who helps with functional academics and leisure time activities, such as making latch-hook rugs, wall hangings, and vine and straw wreaths.

Mrs. Yvonne Quattlebaum teaches the students adapted physical education, which involves teaching aerobics, badminton, croquet, dances that help with eye-hand coordination, and training for the Special Olympics. One student said that Mrs. Quattlebaum is "pretty cool" when she works with the class.

EDUCATION

Physical education is a required subject. Though it is called a minor subject, it is major in importance. Physical education helps a person become physically fit and releases tension and stress of everyday life.

Some of the major activities boys participate in are basketball, football, and baseball. These particular sports are emphasized to give more practice to those who play as a team for Brewer as well as to help those who do not.

The girls have more variety in their class. The girls have an aerobic time during class with The Jane Fonda Workout. Sports that girls participate in are volleyball, archery, ping-pong, and tennis. Each year there is a Governor's Award and a Presidential Award given for reaching requirements of activities. For certain age groups, there is a set time to do particular exercises. Those students who reach the required point average in that amount of time get an award. The highest award, the Presidential Award, is just another way to influence students to strive for physical fitness.

The physical education courses' main goal is to get students in good physical shape and influence students to stay that way even after they graduate. The sports taught at Brewer can be a continuing part of one's leisure activities.

Future Business Leaders of America (FBLA) is a club that prepares students for a career in business and office administration.

The club has business meetings once a month in which they discuss club functions. During the school year they had guest speakers who included the district vice-president of FBLA, Decatur Mayor Bill Dukes' secretary who spoke on professionalism in the office, and a nutritionist who spoke on exercise and nutrition.

This year FBLA attended the district meeting in Athens and the state meeting in Montgomery. Membership dues were used to pay expenses. The officers elected for next year will attend an officer training class for two days in August at the University of Alabama.

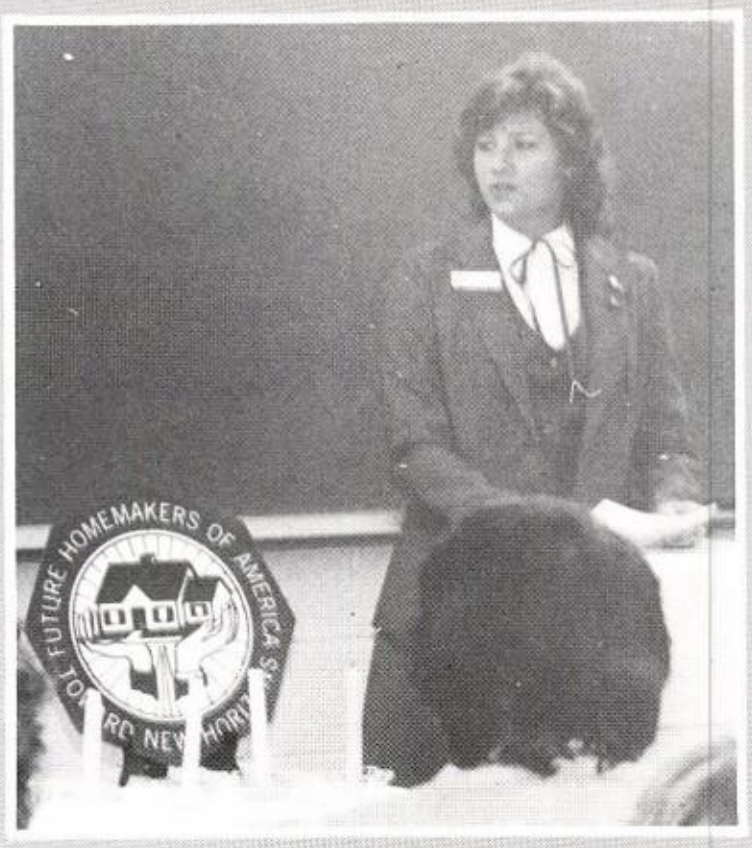
The Future Homemakers of America (FHA) is organized to promote skills in home economics. The FHA members are involved in several service projects. These include making trick-or-treat bags for the elderly at Halloween and sponsoring a foster child at Christmas. In order to fund these projects, club members sold cookbooks throughout the community.

In the spring FHA members took up donations for the preservation of the Statue of Liberty. Brewer High School's name will be entered in the Register of Contributors on permanent display at the site of the statue.

The FHA exhibit entered in competition at the Birmingham State Fair won first place and a prize of $250. At club meetings an FHA state officer from Falkville spoke and Parisians' presented a fashion show. To be a member of FHA one must have taken home economics, child care, food production, or clothing production.



FHA state officer Rhonda Fitzgerald was the guest speaker at the club's initiation ceremony.

Future Farmers of America

Future Farmers of America (F.F.A.) is the national organization for students studying vocational agribusiness. Their primary aim is the development of agribusiness leadership, cooperation, citizenship, and to create and nurture love of country life. They also prepare students for employment at the entry level in jobs which require knowledge and skills in the areas such as metal working, masonry, woodworking, and general farming. This year they raised $1500 in their annual orange sales. Money was used to buy new equipment for the workshop and feed for the showcalf. During FFA week they sponsored an assembly, their guest speaker was State Agriculture Commissioner Albert McDonald.

The Brewer High School Band is one of the largest bands in Morgan County and has accomplished the name "The Pride of Morgan County."

Summer band camp started the first week of August at Brewer High School. Practices were on Monday, Tuesday, and Thursday from 6 p.m. until about 8 p.m. Four days a week the band practiced until about 5 p.m. each day after school. The band plays at every pep rally to help add excitement to the students.

Football games and pep rallies are not the only occasions for the band to perform. The concert season provides numerous events for the musicians to practice, polish, and perform. Each year, the band goes to District Contest. At District, held at Decatur High School this year, the band received excellent ratings. The Christmas Concert with a program of Christmas music is held every year in December in the Brewer gym. The Spring Concert in May entertains the audience with a variety of songs.

Since its beginning the band has grown in both size and abilities. Jim Crawley has been director for the band for thirteen years since the band first started. Mr. Crawley has always told his students to listen not only to themselves but to the others in the room. Since 1972 the band has grown from forty-three members to 145. This number includes two drum majorettes, eight majorettes, five members of the honor guard, three rifle twirlers, and eleven members of the flag corps.

The band members sold Alabama and Auburn programs this year to raise money for new uniforms. The band also sponsored a circus to raise money for a band trip.

HONOR GUARD

The honor guard includes the rifles and the banner carriers. The honor guard accompanies the band and contributes an element of class to the band. The honor guard practiced four days a week after school with the band and created routines that were uniquely their own. The honor guard (pictured left to right) consists of Kim Mason, Michele Brown, Lisa Riggins, Velisa Bond, and Kay Mason.

FLAGS

The flag corps is a sideline to the halftime show. They add style and color to the band. The evidence of the skill and coordination adds color and continuity to the various musical numbers that the band plays. MAJORETTES

Eight Girls of the Band Twirl and Dazzle

When marching season rolls around every fall, a few students give up their instruments and take on the majorette's responsibility. The majorettes spent many long, hard hours after school and evening practices. The majorettes received a high rating at Jacksonville State's majorette camp. Money was raised during the summer to pay tuition costs by selling doughnuts. The routines this year had extras such as twirling fire, streamers, and two batons. The majorettes also twirled at two pep rallies by doing a Charleston dance to a 1920's song and twirling to "Birth of the Blues." Majorettes, Pictured Left to Right are: Ronica Holland, Kelly Johnson, co-head; Rhonda Ford, Kim Dukes, Melanie McCutcheon, Mary Bartlett, head; Cherie Garner, and Camilla Phillips.

Geneology Club

The Geneology Club, sponsored by Mr. Tilley, is a new club at Brewer this year. Its purpose is to interest students in learning more about their family background. Club members, by talking to relatives and doing research in both libraries and courthouses, are able to trace their "roots."

Sportsman Club

Sportsman Club provides the opportunity for students with an interst in nature to participate in field trips and cook-outs. Included in these trips are visits to Yellow Bluff, Canyon Falls, Fort Bluff, and the Wheeler Wildlife Interpretive Center. Nature slides and films are shown at the meetings. They also pay for subscriptions to National Wildlife, International Wildlife, and The Bird Watchers Digest that are placed in the library for everyone to use.

Requirements for membership are an interest in nature, membership fee and an essay about why they want to be in the club.

History Club

Ms. Farrer, the new sponsor of the history club, explains that the purpose of the History Club is to promote interest in our heritage and local points of interest. The History Club is working on preparing a history of Brewer High School, which will later be sold to the students. The History Club has had several speakers this year including Mr. Tucker, speaking on World War II; Ms. Susan Parker, speaking on Alabama Politics; and Mr. Bill Yancey, speaking on the Civil War. A Public Broadcasting Service film about the history of the Indians in Alabama was also shown. Ms. Farrer explains that with growing interest, the History Club will continue to expand with more projects and members.

Senior Math Club

This year the Math Club was divided into two groups: the Senior Math Club and the Junior Math Club to accommodate the number of freshmen and sophomores interested in math.

The Senior Math Club spent their club periods in the computer lab in the new math wing. The members worked with the Apple computers, learned computer programming techniques, and became acquainted with different types of math-oriented programs, such as geometry and algebra.

Scholars' Bowl

What is Scholars' Bowl? Scholars' Bowl, put simply, is a team of students chosen to represent the school to compete in answering questions in numerous fields of knowledge.

To join, a student completes a written test and answers "oral toss-up" questions, answered by whoever "buzzes" first. Students are then chosen on the basis of correctly-answered questions, with a point for each, and none counted off. Teacher recommendations are also used in selecting team members.

Scholars' Bowl members practice two days a week for competition against other teams in the 6-A division. The team competes annually at Wallace State and Calhoun Community Colleges.

The team consists of eight members, ranging from freshmen to seniors.

National Honor Society

The purpose of the National Honor Society is to promote scholarship, leadership, character, and citizenship qualities. To be considered for membership, a student must meet certain requirements. Students must have taken at least two college prep courses, must have a 95 average, and be able to maintain a 93 average. In addition, students must be participating in two extracurricular activities.

Part of the Honor Society's work is to help in community services. This year, they have donated money to the Boy's Ranch, distributed Halloween candy to the Children's Home in Decatur, collected toys and donations for the State Crippled Children's Service, visited the facilities, and taken handicapped students on a field trip to Wheeler Wildlife Refuge and Cook's Museum. The members also decorated the Christmas tree for the student concourse. To raise money for these projects, the club sold Valentine's Day candy as a fund raiser and sponsored the first dance of the year.

The International Thespian Society is a club for students interested in drama. To qualify for membership in the Thespian Society, one must earn the equivalent of ten points, earned by attending plays and competitions, and by working on the school play produced during the spring. Thespians attend many different speech competitions during the school year. Events in these competitions include original oratory, dramatic and humorous interpretation, prose/poetry, and solo interpretation. In June 1984, Becky Henderson represented Brewer and the state in the National Forensic League Competition in San Antonio, Texas. Becky competed in the event of original oratory.

Theatre is not literature, propoganda, or philosopy . . . It is simply what cannot be expressed by any other means . . . a complexity of words, movements, gestures that convey a vision of the world unexpressible in any other way.
— Eugene Ionesco, Roumanian playwright

Patrian Staff

The 1985 Patrian Staff consists of 15 members and a sponsor that work together all year to create the yearbook. Work actually begins in the summer with the selling of advertisements and the attending of clinic. Then during the first semester, students go through a journalism class which includes the teaching of all forms of writing and layout drawing. Also during this time photographers take photos of school activities. During the second semester things begin to fall into place and the yearbook is created. Fund raisers include the Miss Patrian Pageant and the Talent Show.

Junior Math Club

The Junior Math Club was formed this year to accommodate ninth and tenth grade students.

The members worked during their club periods with the Apple computers in the computer lab, designed their own programs, working with other math-oriented programs. The Junior Math Club also visited Intergraph in Huntsville, a company specializing in computers.

The Art Club is a group of students who enjoy entering art competitions.

Students entered art work in competitions reflecting energy conservation, patriotic pride, and handicap awareness.

Winners in the competitions were Chandra Crow, third place, handicapped poster contest; Robert James, first place, and Cyndi Gunter, second place in energy conservation in Alabama contest; Robert James, first place in patriotic picture contest.

Show Choir

Show choir is a small group consisting of sixteen members that were chosen from concert chorus. This group choreographs routines to contemporary and broadway-type music. The members practice after school, spending many hours working on the routine and songs. Show choir performs during Spring Concert, in junior high schools and for civic groups in the area. One student said, "Show choir adds a little dazzle to concert chorus' performances."

Concert chorus is an auditional group consisting of sixty members. They perform a variety of music: sacred, contemporary, pop, and broadway tunes. Concert chorus performs several times a year. Each year they perform a Christmas Concert and a Spring Concert at Brewer. They are not, however, limited to one school. They travel and perform at the local junior high schools as well. In addition to school, they present sacred concerts for local churches. This year, by special invitation, they presented their Christmas Concert at the Princess Theatre for the disadvantaged elderly citizens of North Alabama.

Out of concert chorus, there were fourteen members chosen to form a new group: Honor Choir. The Honor Choir performed at the North Alabama Honor Choir at Walker Junior College in March. From the North Alabama Honor Choir, students were elected to Who's Who in Music. The members chosen were as follows: Kristy Aldridge, Kathy Childers, Candie Falls, Sherry Holmes, Tim Tate, Jeannine Turney, and Annette Vaughn.

Music Appreciation

If you love music, the Music Appreciation Club is for you. In fact, that is the only requirement for club membership, other than a membership fee. The club's guest speakers this year included composers, musicians, vocalists, and directors. The club members have expanded their musical horizons this year as well as having enjoyed the club for sheer entertainment.

The Junior Youth for Christ Club is a group of students who follow Christ. They have ninety-seven members this year. They participated in Operation Santa Claus, in which the club collected goods for the Wallace Center in Decatur. They also collected $351 in homerooms for the Heart Fund.

Senior Youth for Christ

The Senior Youth for Christ is a non-profit, Christian organization. The monthly meetings include a variety of entertaining programs such as a drama presentation by the Thespians, the New Canaan Youth Choir, and the Faculty Witness program. The club also has guest speakers throughout the year. The Senior Youth for Christ strives to be of service to the students and faculty by sponsoring morning devotions and Silent Witness Week. At Christmas, the club adopts a child and gives small gifts to the lunchroom ladies and janitor. The club also sponsors a canned food drive in which the homerooms donate canned foods. This year the club collected 500-600 cans of food.

Student Council meets every first Monday of the month to discuss projects and officer's conventions. Student Council contributes to both the school spirit and pride by sponsoring a variety of activities. They sold balloons to promote school spirit during Homecoming Week. Each Christmas the Council sells candy grams: students write messages to their friends that are attached to candy canes and delivered by the Council. The money made from the candy grams is used to buy gifts for a needy child. The Council sponsors the Valentine's Day dance. The money made from the dance is used to send the officers to the spring and summer conventions. Each year the Council also sponsors the Red Cross Blood Drive on campus. Students, faculty, and community members are given the opportunity to be a donor.

Any student who wishes to run may be elected by his classmates as a homeroom representative. Students running for major offices give speeches during a spring assembly before the student body and are then voted on by the underclassmen.

Junior Science Club

The Junior Science Club sponsors the school's annual science fair. They buy all awards for the fair's winners and pay all school entry fees for regional, state and national competition.

Any ninth or tenth grade student who is interested in science may join the Junior Science Club. Taking a science class is not a membership requirement. When the club meets, the members play science and biology bingo, play other science games, discuss science, and conduct scientific demonstrations.

Senior Science Club

The Senior Science Club is a club for students who have continued the study of science after science requirements are completed. Some of the students participate in the local and regional science fairs. Activities include working in the computer lab and with charity organizations. Money earned with this year's paper and can drives completed a project that began with 1982: the club purchased an Apple IIe computer. The computer is accessible to the club's members and the Science Department.

The purpose of the chess club is to provide students the opportunity to learn the game of chess. The members of the club play chess during the monthly meetings, in order to improve their game and prepare for the spring tournament. The tournament begins in the March meeting and is concluded during morning breaks in May. Awards are presented at the Awards Day for first, second and third place. Outstanding Achievement Award is also presented to the member who has shown outstanding leadership.

Outstanding Achievement Award Winner: Stanley Osborne.

Superior Seniors

Patriot Persuasion

The football team under the direction of a new coach, Ivan Richards, has practiced long and played hard. In winning or losing they showed true sportsmanship at every game. Displaying their pride in winning and holding their heads high in losing. This year's football season has brought the students closer together, showing what true patriot pride is all about.

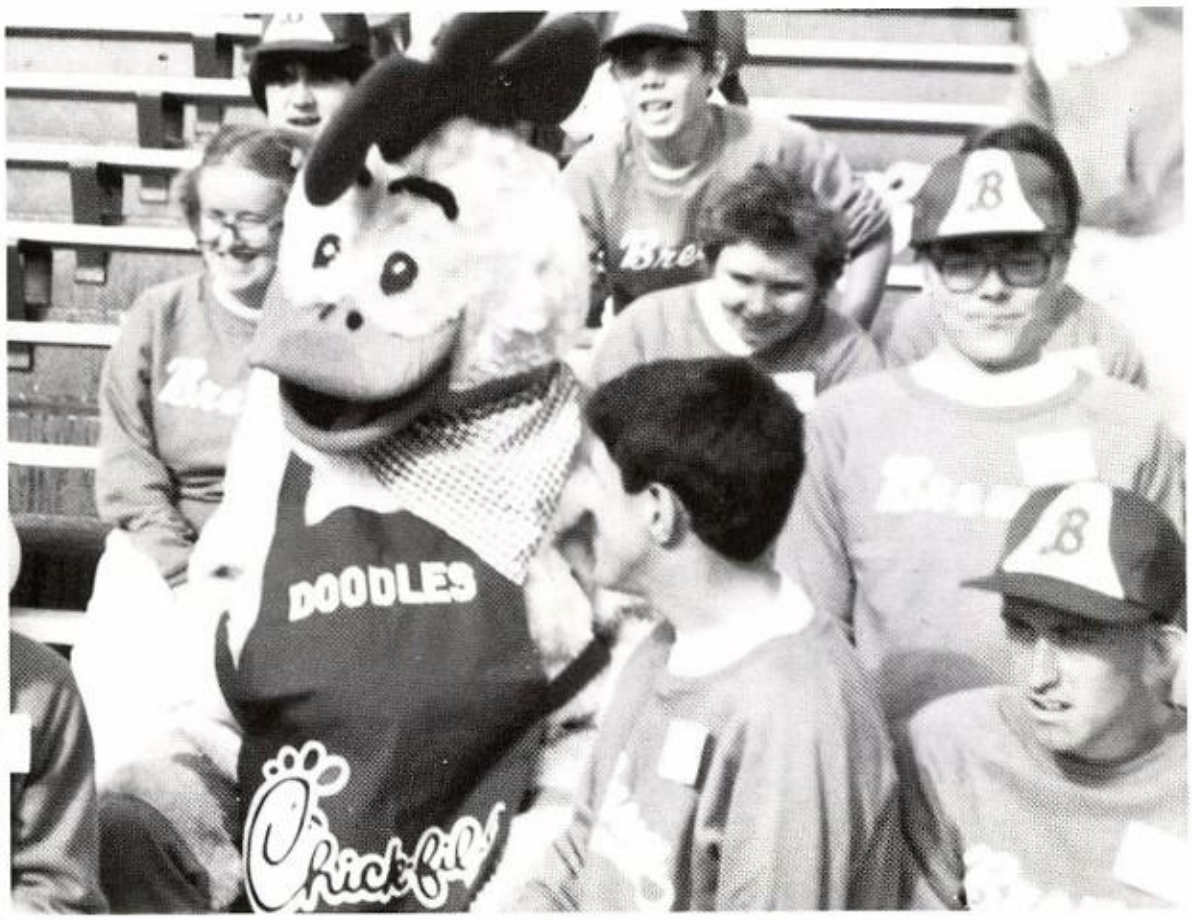
Special Olympics

Mr. Dunlap and the uniformed athletes break huddle before the events begin.

The Special Olympics were founded in 1968 by the Joseph Kennedy Foundation. Brewer High School has attended for the past six years. This year fourteen students participated and twenty-six ribbons were won. Each athlete can participate in two events. These events include the 50 meter dash, 200 meter dash, 400 meter run, 400 meter relay, one mile run, frisbee throw, standing long jump, high jump, and the softball throw. At local and district competition the winners receive ribbons; and at the state competition in Anniston they win medals. The students train for the competition during physical education class and do home-training exercises. The olympics are sponsored by many local businesses and foundations. Civic groups and parents volunteer to assist in the Special Olympics.

Opening day festivities included a release of balloons.



Sponsors for the Special Olympics include businesses: McDonald's, Hills, and Chick-fil-a. Brewer athletes visit with one of the mascots who was at the competition.

Volunteers assist Tammy Hitt in the 50 meter dash.

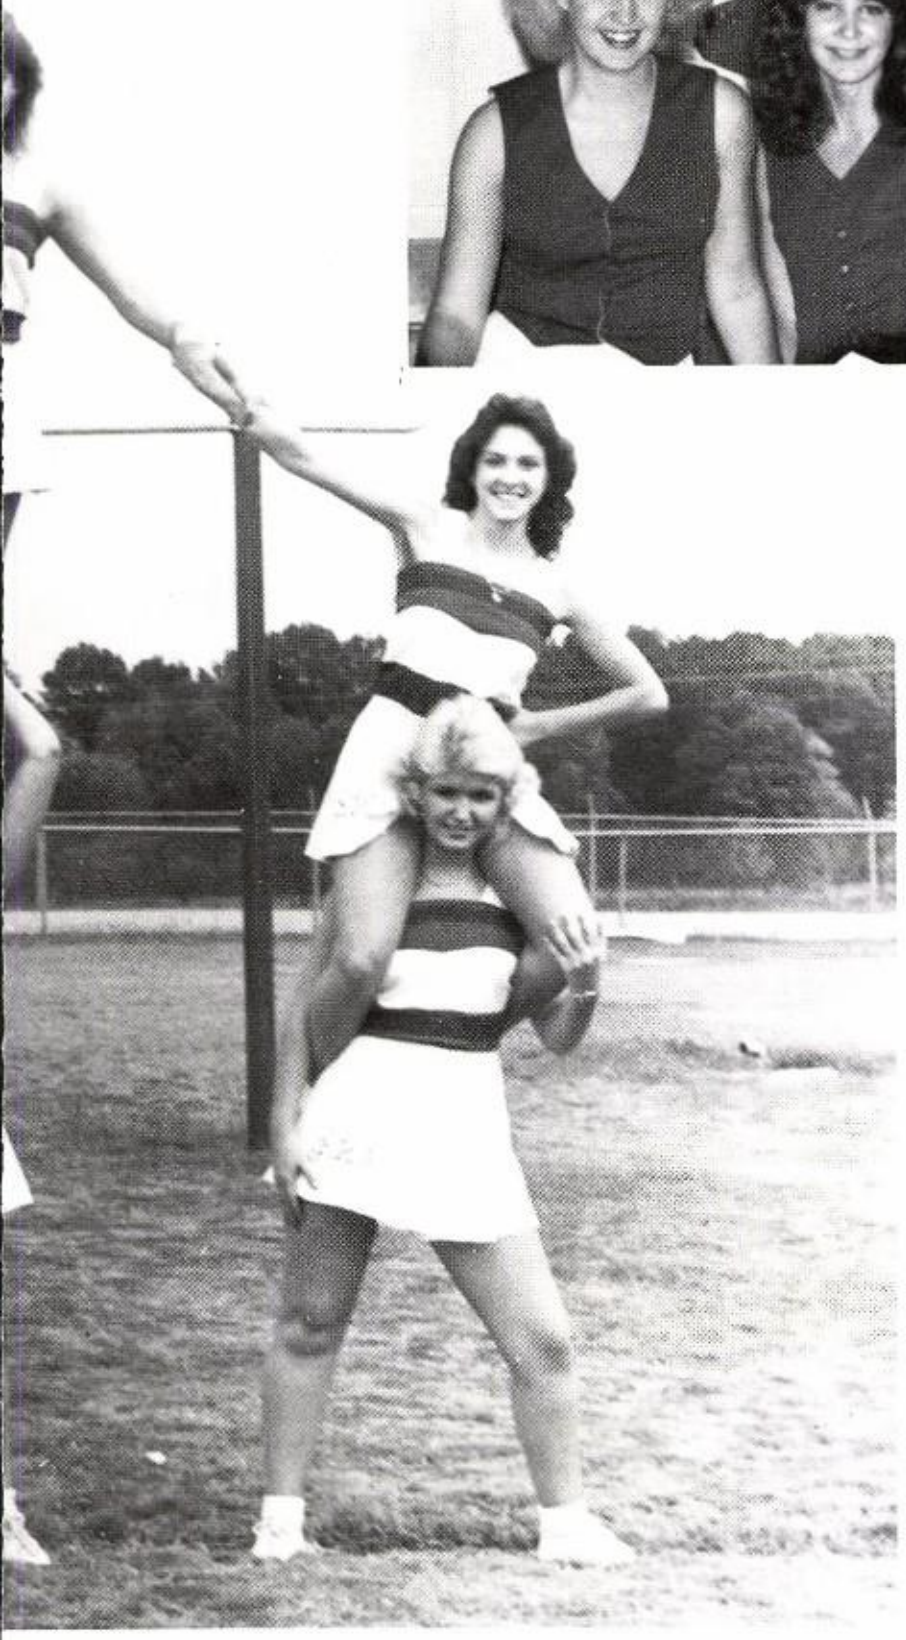
Cheerleaders



Cheerleading isn't all fun and games. The Cheerleaders make the goalpost banners and plan signs for the football field, gym, and school building. To raise money for new uniforms and equipment, they sell ads for the football program and sponsor the Homecoming Dance and a Computer Dating Service.

During the summer, the cheerleaders practiced three days a week. At the Universal Cheerleaders Association camp held at Tennessee Tech, they won six blue ribbons in overall performance.

The Cheerleaders are elected by the student body and a panel of judges. Routines and cheers are performed in front of the student body and then the students vote.

Mrs. Perry is the sponsor of the Cheerleading squad and has put in countless hours planning and organizing cheerleading functions and activities.

The Brewer High Varsity Volleyball team had a successful 1984 season defeating teams like Hartselle, Falkville, and Lee. Ricky Allen coached the girls to third place at the Morgan County Tournament. Tina Allen, Tammy Borden, and Pam Oldacre were the recipients of the All-County Awards. Tina Allen and Pal Oldacre also captured the All-Region awards at the Regional Tournament which Brewer hosted. Managers Donna Durham and Toby Chambers were a big help to the team by keeping stats, bringing water to the players, and calling lines. Everyone on the volleyball team helped the Lady Patriots to a winning 1984 season.

What does it take to make up the Junior Varsity Volleyball team? Few people realize the importance of a good Junior Varsity team and the hard work put into it. Junior Varsity Volleyball requires effort and discipline. It prepares one for a chance on the Varsity team. Brewer's Junior Varsity team was one that put all the effort into the games. They worked hard and achieved the spirit and discipline it takes to have a good volleyball team.

Presenting . . .

The Lady Dazzlers

The Lady Dazzlers perform dance routines at halftime of homecoming varsity basketball games. They practice after school once a week to prepare routines which are performed to current popular songs. Uniforms range from Dazzler t-shirts and shorts in all colors to tuxedo costumes. The girls sold Krispy Kreme Donuts to raise money to purchase uniforms.

Once a month, the Dazzlers voted on "Dazzler of the Month." Her picture was then displayed in the concourse display bulletin board for the month.

The 1985 Dazzlers were selected after creating an original routine that was performed for an audition. Mrs. Stephenson and Ms. Farrer, sponsors of the Dazzlers, determine membership.

Patriot

The Pat's started off slow this season but with a determined mind and outstanding effort played very well during the end. The high point of the season was defeating West Morgan at home by one point. The Rebels were ranked 4th in the state but fell to the wayside by a last second shot made by senior, Jeff Cavender. The Pats also pulled off another upset victory over the East Lawrence Eagles by a last second shot made by Joel Wilson. The Pats ended the season with a 5-16 record.

Coa[illegible]ynn Brothers

Despite a serious knee injury which side lined guard Tina Allen for the majority of the season, the Lady Patriots had one of their best seasons, according to one of the team members. They placed third in the county.

Carla Patterson was recognized for most rebounds. Kim Jones had the highest free throw percentage. Pam Oldacre was named the team's Most Valuable Player. Both Jones and Oldacre served as team captains and were named both All County and All Area.

Two team members were awarded athletic scholarships as area junior colleges. Kim Jones will play basketball at Calhoun Community College in Decatur and Tina Allen will be playing both softball and basketball at Wallace State Community College in Hanceville.

The team competed at Lee, Grissom, Huntsville, Johnson and Athens. They hold practices twice a week before the season starts, if the weather permits. An outdoor range is a disadvantage because the other schools have indoor rifle ranges.

BASEBALL, YOU BET!

A basically young team with an 11-12 record for the season, Brewer finished second behind Lee of Huntsville in regional tournament play. Only two seniors were on the team, Ricky Schoenberger and David Lemmond. David was named to the All Star team. A sophomore, Tim Baker was named the team's Most Valuable Player.

is worth a lot more than the paper
it's printed on

Getting a high school diploma may not seem very important to you.
But when it comes time to look for a job, that piece of paper will be worth a lot.

The fact is, you need a high school education to get almost any rewarding job.

So stick with it. It pays to stay in school.

CLOSING

Seniors and guests stand for the singing of "America" at the beginning of graduation ceremonies.

Class Motto: The world is for those who make dreams come true.

Class Colors: Red, white, and blue.

A Night to Remember the Past and Look Forward to the Future

Left: Seniors sing the Alma Mater as graduation exercises come to a close. Below: Seniors say good-bye before they begin a new way of life.

We shared our hopes, thoughts, and dreams of a future away from the world of study and classrooms.

At Right: Kelly Tumlin and Wendy Fairbanks let their minds wander off into "space" after cheerleading practice. Below: Everyone loves Chris Potter.

Of a world where we could add our own share of knowledge to that accumulated by generations past . . . and find ourselves in the reflections of others.

A friend is someone who knows all about you but . . . likes you anyway.
